

Wolf Road May Be Re Routed To Save Woodland

The matter of securing right of way for a cement road bed on Wolf Road has come to a stand still at the Clarence Cleveland farm south of Mokena.

Mr. Cleveland is opposed to the suggestion that he should dedicate a strip of land one hundred feet in width through the heart of his timber land, for the reason that the building of a highway as proposed, would necessitate the destruction of several hundred of his most beautiful forest trees, flowering bushes, vines, etc.

Many trees now growing upon the proposed route are more than one hundred years of age, Mr. Cleveland states.

In the owners opinion such trees should be carefully saved for forest preserve or park purposes rather than to be up-rooted by road gangs.

Mr. Cleveland has agreed to work in harmony with the highway committee should they arrange for the new cement road to follow the old road bed now passing through his farm from Mokena to Lincoln highway.

The expense incurred to Will County tax payers would be greatly lessened should the old Mokena road be straightened out and used as a route for the proposed new cement strip, rather than to cut through the Cleveland timber land inasmuch as the last named route would necessitate a large amount of filling, grading, etc.

One creek would have to be straightened in order to avoid the building of two extra bridges. The county would also be compelled to move the new Cleveland school building to another location should the surveyed new route be followed.

There is no proposal under consideration at this time for the paving of Wolf Road south of Lincoln highway as that stone road is practically untraveled.

After looking over the situation several residents of Will county, including Senator R. J. Barr and some county board members, have agreed with Mr. Cleveland that a new survey should be made from Hickory Creek bridge to Lincoln highway via the old route, with all sharp turns and curves eliminated.

Mrs. T. McGlashen Dies in Oregon

Mrs. Thomas R. McGlashen, 110 Glenwood ave., Joliet, died Sunday, July 13 at 7 o'clock in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bruce Hoffman in Portland, Oregon. Mrs. McGlashen was a former Frankfort resident residing on a farm east of Frankfort for many years. She located in Joliet about five years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. McGlashen left Joliet about seven weeks ago to visit in the west with their daughter and other relatives. Two days after arriving at their daughter's home, Mrs. McGlashen was taken ill with a stroke.

She was 63 years old and lived in Joliet and Frankfort most of her life. She had a large circle of friends and was an active member of the Grace M. E. church of Joliet. She is survived by her husband, Thomas R. McGlashen, a son Robert of California, a son Alfred of Chicago; one daughter, Mrs. Pearl Hoffman of Portland, one grand daughter, and two grandsons.

Funeral services were held in Portland on Wednesday. Burial was at Portland. Mrs. McGlashen's parents are also buried in Portland.

HEART ATTACK PROVES FATAL

Harry Neckrauer, age 43 years, died at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Neckrauer, Saturday evening at ten o'clock following a heart attack. He is survived by his mother. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 at the home and at the St. Peter's Evangelical church at 2 o'clock. Rev. G. Gerhold officiated. Burial was in Pleasant Hill cemetery, Frankfort.

Paulsen Estate Offered for Probate

The estate of William Paulsen of Green Garden who died in Homewood was offered for probate Saturday before Judge Fred Adams in the Will county probate court.

The estate consists of 160 acres of land in Green Garden township. The estate will be divided according to law among his widow, Mrs. Wilhelmina Paulsen, his daughters, Mrs. Emelia Dammann, Mrs. Malinda Runge and a son Albert W. Paulsen.

Mr. Paulsen was a former resident of Frankfort.

TINLEY GIRL QUIETLY MARRIED SATURDAY

Miss Agnes Brueggemann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Brueggemann of Tinley Park and Edwin O'Neill were quietly married in the Washington Heights Lutheran church last Saturday afternoon.

Electrocute Flies At Orland

Orland people are resorting to exterminating flies, moths, etc., by the electric light since Clarence E. Beagley the local electrical contractor has introduced an electrical exterminator. The affair looks like a bird cage, has a container in which to place food to attract the flies. The wires of the cage are all charged with electricity and as quickly as a fly comes in contact with the wires he is promptly electrocuted. At night a light bulb is used to attract the moths and other insects and they also are killed when they come in contact with the wires. Another feature is a charged window screen which also serves as an exterminator.

The new devise has been installed in the Mann home and can also be seen in operation at James Creer's store and at Mr. Beagley's store.

TINLEY PARK GARDEN NOTES

PANSIES

Dainty urchins come to town, Clad in frocks of velvet down; Wishing very much to please, They toss curtsies to the breeze.

Martha M. Wendt

Our flower show chairman, Mrs. John Werth and her committee met Monday afternoon at Saenger Hall.

This meeting was held for the purpose of arranging and making plans for our fourth annual flower show.

During the last week our president had a most pleasant duty to perform, when she called at the homes of our three newly little arrivals and brought a vase the gift of the Garden club, with the following lovely poem enclosed and a "tiny pink rosebud too".

For You

Here is a welcome sweet and true, Dear little Rosebud, just for you, Sent by the "Tinley Garden Club", With bountiful measure of joy, and love.

On every birthday that you have, Please ask your mother, or your dad,

To place a rose, if they are able, In this small vase, to grace your table.

We hope your treasure house of years,

Will be filled with jewels, and minus tears,

And that your birthdays may roll along,

As note, follows note, in a beautiful song.

Trudie Swisher
At the request of Mrs. R. J. Hug

The homes visited were Mrs. Harold Berg, Mrs. Al. Koehler, and Mrs. Frank Mancke.

A beautiful bouquet of sweet peas from the garden of Mrs. Henry Kehres was taken to Mrs. Parenti, Sr., by Mrs. Hug. This was a tribute of love for Mrs. Parenti to help her bear up from the sadness of her bereavement.

Saturday July 19 the four following Lake Forest Gardens are the last ones to be open to the public for the season:

Mrs. Wm. E. Clow, Mrs. Lester Armour, Mrs. George D. McLaughlin, Miss F. M. Underwood.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held Friday, July 18 at the home of Mrs. Henry Wyman. The club is very pleased to have Mrs. Wyman here again.

Frankfort Club to Hold Sun. Dances

The Frankfort Industrial club has announced a series of Sunday dances at their grove north of Frankfort on Route 51 for the months of July, August, September and October.

The opening dance of this series will be held Sunday evening, July 20th. Everyone invited.

Wabash To Sponsor Alfalfa Program

Queen Alfalfa will be honored at a special Alfalfa Day program in Manhattan on August 8th. The meeting is being sponsored by the Will county Farm Bureau, the University of Illinois and the Wabash Railway Company.

Alfalfa has often been proved one of the most profitable of corn belt crops when it is seeded and grown according to modern methods. This meeting is being planned as a means of putting more Will County Farm Land into this crop, which is unexcelled as a forage for farm livestock.

The co-operation of many leading farmers of the county is being enlisted for Alfalfa Day. Plans are under way to test soil samples for everyone who desires this service. The soil will be tested for both lime and phosphorous requirements and the representatives of the University will offer recommendations for soil treatment which have proven most profitable in making a good crop of this legume.

In addition to this free service the local merchants are planning special attractions which will help bring out a large farmer attendance.

WABASH TAKES OFF TWO TRAINS

Effective Monday of this week, the Wabash railroad took off two passenger trains from the Orland suburban service. The electric train known as "the galloping goose" running from Decatur to Chicago and a train from Chicago formerly due at 10 a. m. at Orland, were the trains discontinued. The Orland theatre goers are also out of luck. The train formerly due at Orland at 11:30 p. m., has been set two hours ahead, arriving at 9:30 p. m.

MOKENA GARDEN CLUBNOTES

By MRS. OTTO A. BARTELS

Members of the Mokena Garden club celebrated their First Anniversary, Friday, July 11th with an outing and picnic at Highland Park.

Starting from Mokena at 10 a. m. the club first visited the Conservatory and gardens in Pilcher Park. The beautiful rock gardens and wonderful landscape gardens deserve comment. The wooded drive through Pilcher and Highland Park brought them to a delightful shady spot with tables, under the sycamore trees, where a bountiful picnic lunch was served and enjoyed, after Mrs. Koehler and Mrs. Mattes found a way of cooking the ween's.

Mrs. Mall, program chairman, in order to spend a quiet after dinner period, read an interesting article on "The Old Fashioned Friendship Garden," after this pencil and paper were distributed for a Flower Contest in which all took part with Mrs. Mall winning first place.

Now the real sport of the day began in races. The bean race was won by Mrs. A. C. Hall. The fat woman's race won by Mrs. Albert Braun. The ball tossing race won by Mrs. G. Kohler. Each received appropriate prizes.

The children enjoyed the swings and the slides and Mesdames Tooley, Schweser, Mall and Braun came in for their share of swinging. Young and old joined in a spirit of good fellowship in wholesome sport.

On the return drive the club visited the flower gardens in Pilcher Park and were amazed at the wonderful beds of double gailardia, heli-chrysis, (straw flowers), salpiglossis, pansy and many other flowers.

All enjoyed the outing, near to nature and will look forward to the next anniversary of the Mokena Garden Club.

How swift has rolled the passing year;

Our fellowship has been most dear, Our work and care has brought us near

And left a kind thought linger here.

Written by Mrs. F. Braun in the absence of Mrs. O. Bartels, Publicity Chairman.

TINLEY Legion Notes

The monthly social meeting of the Post will be held on Monday, July 21st. A special order of business will be the election of a delegate and an alternate to the state convention at Aurora in September.

It is especially important that this Post be well represented at the convention as we have a candidate from the 4th District for the office of State Commander. Local guests of honor will be present at the meeting and a distinguished Legionnaire of Chicago is expected to attend and to address the Post.

For the fourth time in a period of six months, this correspondent has had the duty of announcing the passing of some comrade's beloved one. In this case, it is more difficult than ever, because of the great degree of comradeship existing between the bereaved parents and the writer and also because of the way in which the little girl had endeared herself to him.

Miss Lois Rowden, daughter of Senior-Vice commander George Rowden, passed away at 2 a. m., Monday July 14 after a brief illness of a week. She was 9 years old and had just completed her third year in the public school with high honors. She had some remarkable records for attendance also at the M. E. Sunday school.

Every member of the Post who knew her will miss her for her bright intelligent mind and her happy disposition. Many is the time she has met this writer at the door of her parents home when Legion business made the call necessary. Always she had the happy smile and polite little mannerisms that cause one to love a child of that kind.

As the daughter of a Comrade who served his country in time of war, this little lady received a semi-military honor. Tuesday comrades of the American Legion guarded her body and Wednesday, the day of the funeral, the Post flag was at half-mast in honor and respect to her memory.

May she rest in peace.

REPAIR MOKENA STREET

Mayor Harry Mall, Albert Braun and Henry Schweser repaired the chuck holes on Front street Thursday afternoon.

Lois Rowden Given Semi-Military Burial

Miss Lois Rowden, nine year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rowden, was taken ill last Friday passed away early Monday morning. Her sudden death came as a heavy blow to her parents and her many friends. She was a winsome little lady and greatly beloved.

Her father being the Senior-Vice Commander of the Tinley Park Post of the American Legion, the funeral services were held from the Legion Community hall. On Tuesday night and Wednesday she laid in state in the Community hall and was guarded by an honor guard of the Legion.

She was accorded semi-military honors. Wednesday the flag at the hall and the flag at the school house was at half mast.

Hundreds of people attended the funeral services held in the afternoon at the Community hall. Rev. Mr. Hopkins of Morgan Park officiated. The floral offerings numbering over 75 pieces, were exceedingly beautiful. A floral lane was formed outside of the hall by a company of little folks at the close of the services and four little girl chums acted as pall bearers and carried the casket to the hearse.

The funeral was in charge of Funk, Adler & Hirsch of Oak Forest. Burial was in the Archer Woods cemetery at 83rd and Keane.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the grief stricken parents in the great loss of their only child.

Start Work on Wolf Rd. Bridge at Mokena

Activity on the Wolf road bridge work has taken shape the past week when the Will County Construction Co., of Joliet who have been given the bridge contract moved a number of tool houses on the site of the bridge north of Mokena. Construction work will soon be under way. This is the first construction move on the Will County side of Wolf rd.

To Celebrate Wm. Gouger Centenary

The descendants of William Gouger pioneer settler of New Lenox township, met recently at the old homestead at Gougar's crossing to make plans for the celebration of the centennial anniversary of his locating here. Sunday, August 31, is the date set for the event, which will be held in the old homestead. A short program will be given by the children of the fifth generation as a feature on this historical program. An historical sketch compiled by Miss Nellie Gougar, grand daughter of this pioneer will be read. Refreshments will be served.

Orland Bible Vacation School Proves Popular

The Daily Vacation Bible School which has been in session in the parlors of the Orland Park M. E. church for two weeks, came to a close last Friday evening. A fine program was presented in which all of the pupils took part.

A fine display of the handiwork done by the students was exhibited in the church basement. Cute books, a dainty box of gifts to be sent to the Hawaiian Islands and shoe boxes, hat racks and sail boats were in the articles exhibited.

The school was such a decided success that it has been decided to put on a four weeks course next season. A great deal of credit is due to Miss Myrick, Miss Kay, Rev. Paul Sanders and others for the fine results obtained.

A number of Mokena students also were enrolled this year.

Vaccination Urged During Vacation At Orland

Irene O'Connor, R. N., Cook county Public Health Nurse, urges that all vaccination against small pox be done during vacation and has left the following instructions with the Orland Park school board:

"Since January 1st, 1930, there have been 3,184 cases of smallpox reported in the State of Illinois. If everyone had been vaccinated, this would not have happened. Heed a warning.

"All children should be vaccinated and now is a good time to have it done, while the children are out of school. Parents take your children at once to your family physician and have them vaccinated against smallpox. Don't wait.

"Vaccination is harmless, but so helpful. The Boards of Health and Education deem it wise to immunize every child."

Rev. G. W. Fandry Synod Head Dies in Mich.

Rev. G. W. Fandrey, noted church man in the Lutheran church and president of the Iowa Synod, died at 3:30 a. m., Monday July 14 in the sanitarium at Battle Creek, Michigan following a brief stay. He had been in poor health for sometime, but it was only recently that he went to the sanitarium.

The great ambition of Rev. Mr. Fandrey was to bring about the merger of several synods of his denomination and had he lived until next month his vision would have come true for then it is understood papers will be signed merging the synods of Buffalo, Ohio and Iowa.

About 17 months ago he was united in marriage with Irma Buddenhagen, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Albert Buddenhagen of Tinley Park. A trip to Europe was made by Rev. and Mrs. Fandrey about a year ago.

Rev. Mr. Fandrey laid in state in the St. Stephen Lutheran church at 57th and Sangamon, Chicago Thursday morning. Funeral services were held at this church at 1:30 o'clock.

The president of the Ohio synod preached the English funeral sermon and the editor of "Das Kirchenblatt" of Waverly, Iowa delivered the German funeral oration.

A great concourse filled the edifice, many Tinley Park people attending the funeral.

Burial took place in the Burr Oak cemetery at Blue Island.

ROBBERS RAID FRANKFORT

Frankfort had a series of petty robberies Wednesday night. The residence of Chas. Pfeifer, "J" railroad section foreman was entered and a suit of clothes, a gold watch, a gold 25 year railroad service pin with Mr. Pfeifer's name engraved on it and $5 in cash were missing Thursday morning. The clothes were later found in the yard, but the valuables were gone. No one had heard the robbers.

Chas. Pfaff, Jr., Frankfort contractor, was also visited by the robbers and his clothes stolen which were later found in the yard. The only cash secured was $1.

The Frank Cheney home was also visited, entrance being gained by removing a window screen. Clothes were taken and a check but later on the clothes and the check were also found in the yard. A strange dog was sitting on the clothes. Mr. Cheney tied the dog up. Neighbors had reported seeing a car with a couple of men in drive by and pointing to the dog. It is thought the dog may belong to the robbers.

New School for Orland Twp.

District 137 Orland township will have a new school house. The taxpayers of the district unanimously voted a $5000 bond issue on July 9.

Tinley Flower Show August 20

The Tinley Park Garden Club is all activity now preparing for their 4th annual Flower Show to be held in the Saenger hall on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, August 20th.

The Garden Club has had a new rock garden made on the vacant lot south of the depot.

1 Killed, 15 Hurt in Auto Crash Sunday

A young man was killed and eight persons were hurt, three perhaps fatally, early Sunday when the automobiles of two families motoring home from week end vacations crashed on the Lincoln Highway between Crawford and Cicero avenues about a mile west of Matteson.

All were taken to the St. James hospital, Chicago Heights.

The dead youth was Carl Koehler, 18, of Hammond, Ind.

Those who may die of injuries are Koehler, Mrs. Minnie, 37, the mother.

Koehler, Robert, 9.
Cunnard, Russell, 20, of Flushing, Ohio.

Others injured are:

Koehler, Julius, father of Carl.
Koehler, Ralph, 16.

Koehler, Ruth, 14.
Koehler, Margaret, 8.

Grines, Clifford, 20, of Flushing, Ohio.

According to Policeman James F. Fleming, of the Homewood Highway station the elder Koehler evidently lost control of his machine in attempting to avoid a collision, and crashed into Cunnard's car.

Triangle Talkies

Hello People!

We have some very sad news this week, it is the death of our brother, Peter Parenti. This most wonderful chap will live long in our memories. He was a versatile athlete taking part in football, and basket ball. He had leading roles in two of the club great plays and was one of the club's most popular members earning this by his magnificent personality. One could not help "taking" to him.

We are in sympathy for Mr. and Mrs. George Rowden over their charming daughter who left us this week.

The club's regular meeting was held on Monday July 14. Plans were made for the 2nd annual collegiate dance to be given August 2nd at the Saenger hall. Tickets were given to all members (Didja get your's yet?) Ask any member and they'll be more than willing to give you one for only half a buck.

Folks! Remember the big 2nd annual collegiate dance to be given. It will be enormous. It's on the first Saturday in August. August 2nd! Sammy Berk and his rhythm kings can't wait till that great night; for he's coming back to give you the music and entertainment you demand. Give him a tremendous hand for he'll more than repay you.

"Lest you forget", August 2nd. Didja see the trophies? They're at Din's Ice Cream Parlor. Give a look.

We'll be able to tell you the final results of the final results of the golf tournament (doubles) next issue. So watch this column.

That's all. See you next week.

THE OLD CHISHOLM TRAIL (An Old Cowboy Song)

Come along, boys, and listen to my tale,
I'll tell you of my troubles on the old Chisholm trail.

Coma ti yi youpy, youpy ya, youpy ya,
Coma ti yi youpy, youpy ya.

I started up the trail October twenty-third,
I started up the trail with the 2-U herd.

Oh, a ten dollar boss and a forty dollar saddle—
And I'm goin' to punchin' Texas cattle.

I woke up one morning on the old Chisholm trail,
Rope in my hand and a cow by the tail.

I'm up in the mornin' afore daylight
And afore I sleep the moon shines bright.

Old Ben Bolt was a blamed good boss,
But he'd go to see the girls on a sore-backed boss.

Old Ben Bolt was a fine old man
And you'd know there was whiskey wherever he'd land.

My boss threw me off at the creek called Mud,
My boss threw me off round the 2-U herd.

Last time I saw him he was going across the level
A-kicking up his heels and a-running like the devil.

It's cloudy in the West, a-looking like rain,
And my damned old slicker's in the wagon again.

Crippled my boss, I don't know how,
Ropin' at the horns of a 2-U cow.

We hit Caldwell and we hit her on the fly,
We bedded down the cattle on the hill close by.

No chaps, no slicker, and it's pouring rain,
And I swear, by grab, I'll never night-herd again.

Feet in the stirrups and seat in the saddle,
I hung and rattled with them long-horn cattle.

Last night I was on guard and the leader broke the ranks,

I hit my horse down the shoulders and I spurred him in the flanks.

The wind commenced to blow, and the rain began to fall,

Hit looked, by grab, like we was goin' to loss 'em
all.

I jumped in the saddle and grabbed holt the horn,
Best blamed cow-puncher ever was born.

I popped my foot in the stirrup and gave a little yell,

The tail cattle broke and the leaders went to hell.

I don't give a damn if they never do stop;
I'll ride as long as an eight-day clock.

Foot in the stirrup and hand on the horn,
Best damned cowboy ever was born.

I herded and I hollered and I done very well,
Till the boss said, "Boys, just let 'em go to hell."

Stray in the herd and the boss said kill it,
So I shot him in the rump with the handle of the skillet.

We rounded 'em up and put 'em on the cars,
And that was the last of the old Two Bars.

Oh it's bacon and beans most every day—
I'd as soon be a-eatin' prairie hay.

I'm on my best horse and I'm goin' at a run,
I'm the quickest shootin' cowboy that ever pulled a gun.

I went to the wagon to get my roll,
To come back to Texas, dad-burn my soul.

I went to the boss to draw my roll,
He had it figured out I was nine dollars in the hole.

I'll sell my outfit just as soon as I can,
I won't punch cattle for no damned man.

Goin' back to town to draw my money,
Goin' back home to see my honey.

With my knees in the saddle and my seat in the sky,

I'll quit punching cows in the sweet by and by.

Coma ti yi youpy, youpy ya, youpy ya,
Coma ti yi youpy, youpy ya.

and into Canada. It was no longer the Western Trail or the Dodge Trail; but for probably a majority of cattle people the shift of trail meant also a shift of name. The Western Trail was loosely the Chisholm Trail.

ware Indian scout, marched via the present site of Wichita to Fort Leavenworth. Emory thus broke the trail which Chisholm later traveled, as did other traders and an occasional party of Indians.

Gradually, however, it became known as the Chisholm Trail, but it probably would never have become famous had it not been for the cattle trade which developed so soon after the Civil war.
How that came about was told by Joseph B. Thoburn, secretary of the Oklahoma Historical society, in an article in the Rock Island magazine several years ago as follows:

"The close of the Civil war found beef cattle scarce and high in price throughout the North.
On the other hand, the ranges of Texas were overstocked and cattle were very cheap. Attempts were made to transport Texas cattle to the Mississippi valley corn belt in Missouri, Iowa and Illinois, but these always ended disastrously.

"Among the people who had been interested in trying to introduce Texas cattle into the feed yards of the corn belt was Joseph McCoy, of Springfield, Ill., farm-bred and a cattle feeder by occupation. Losing money on the attempt did not dampen the ardor of McCoy. He studied over the problem until he finally dreamed the dream of the cattle trail.

"The cattle trail from Texas crossed Red river at a place known as Red River City, a short distance below the present Rock Island bridge, near the town of Terrell. Thence it followed a course almost due north, through the extreme western part of the old Chickasaw Nation and a few miles east of the ninety-eighth meridian, which was the eastern boundary of the Comanche-Kiowa, Wichita-Caddo and Cheyenne-Arapahoe Indian reservations.

"It crossed the Washita river near the present town of Alex, the South Canadian near Tuttle and the North Canadian just west of Yukon. From the North Canadian crossing, it inclined slightly westward to a junction with the Chisholm Trail at the crossing of the Cimarron, between Kingfisher and Dover. Thence it followed the line of that trail to Caldwell and Wichita."

Further confirmation of the fact that the original Old Chisholm Trail did not start in Texas, as many believe, is contained in the following statement by Professor Dobie, made in connection with the recent announcement that this famous highway is to be marked with the "sign of the long horn":

"The original Chisholm Trail did not come south of Red river. Drivers from the lower Rio Grande country and drivers from the eastern coastal plains of Texas converged their herds into the Chisholm Trail. Soon the Chisholm Trail had a well defined annex to its southern extremity, an annex longer than the original trail itself. The annex, like a river, had many prongs sprangling out from the south but all pointing north and converging. It was natural that this southern annex should in popular speech take on the name of the original trail, the Chisholm Trail.

"The market in Dodge City, Kan., opened in 1875-76, and for more than a decade Dodge City was the cowboy capital of the world. And the trail, which once terminated in Abilene and had shifted west, now curved on to roaring Oga-lalla, on up the Platte, on up the Yellowstone,

Make Profitable Use of Time to Get Results

Sometimes we are so utterly dull and out of touch with the stimulus of life that we complain how time hangs upon our hands. The truth is, time neither flies nor remains still.
It moves onward at exactly the same rate today as it did a million years ago. What is happening is an alteration in our reaction to time. All these points of view arise out of a changed state of our mind. One moment we see things one way—the next the same things have an entirely different color. That is why, one day, time seems to be fleeting, and another to drag.

Time is always with us, and all we have to do is to occupy ourselves in a way that will produce the best and greatest results. This means thinking on a constructive basis, so that every moment of life is spent in such a manner as to have in it but a minimum of waste.—Exchange.

Uncover Ancient City

The French government and Yale university are uniting in the work of uncovering the ancient city of Doura on the Euphrates river. The scientists have been excavating for about a year and the objects unearthed are said to have thrown new light on the little-known era of 300 A. D., as well as the obscure Parthian civilization.

Up to the present time the finds consist mainly of parchment records, of no importance in themselves, being mostly minor legal documents, but of great value in supplying names of officials and other data of the city.

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria!
Harmless as the recipe on the tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure

"Flies are Highly Dangerous"

Says The United States
Public Health Service

WHEN children come down sick with typhoid or summer complaint, which kills more than 1/5 of the children who die under five, what is the cause? Often the disease has been brought into the home by flies.

Be comfortable and safe. Keep your home insect-free. Spray Flit, which is guaranteed (or money back) to be quick-death to flies, mosquitoes, moths, roaches, bedbugs and other household insects. Yet its clean-smelling vapor is harmless to humans.

Flit kills quicker if you use the special inexpensive Flit Sprayer. Insist on Flit and don't accept a substitute. Get yours this very day!

RELIABILITY ECONOMY GOOD PERFORMANCE

THE NEW FORD TUDOR SEDAN

YOU are buying proved performance when you buy a Ford. You know it has been built for many thousands of miles of satisfactory, economical service.

Letters from users in every part of the world show the value of the sound design of the car, good materials and accuracy in manufacturing. You sense a feeling of sincere pride in the oft-repeated phrase—"Let me tell you what my new Ford did."

Further tribute to the sturdiness, reliability and general all-round performance of the new Ford is shown in the repeated and growing purchases by government bureaus, by police departments, and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most cases, the new Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests covering speed and power, safety, comfort, ease of control, oil and gas consumption, low yearly depreciation, and low cost of up-keep.

They have found, as you will find, that the Ford embodies every feature you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

NOT TIRED— just waiting for HOT WATER

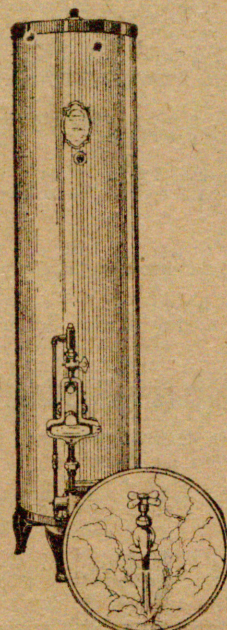

The old saying, "A watched pot never boils" is never truer than when you're in a hurry for hot water and have to depend on the teakettle for your supply. In many homes a dozen routine matters like doing dishes, cleaning, washing, shaving and bathing are each delayed ten or fifteen minutes a day because there isn't an adequate source of hot water. And the situation becomes worse during summer months when the furnace and the furnace coil are given their vacation.

ONLY
$500
DOWN

Modern homes are enjoying all the hot water they want (and finding it an inexpensive luxury) by installing a self-acting gas hot water heater. The "Pittsburg" heater pictured is only $69.75 cash (installation extra)—or $5 down and the balance the "Little by Little" way with nominal carrying charge. Additional Plans Given For Sewer

Although the Sanitary District of Chicago has not made public its plan for the trunk sewer to Oak Forest, the MESSENGER is able, from confidential sources, to present additional data.

Of the total cost of the sewer (one and one-quarter million dollars), it is planned that the sanitary district will pay $250,000, the county $250,000 and the difference, $750,000, to be borne by special assessment.

This assessment will be spread over the territory from Western to Crawford, south from 139th to the south limits of the district, except the village of Posen. According to our informant, this trunk sewer can be tapped every 600 feet by intercepting sewers, but he maintains that the expense of these intercepting sewers must be carried by the individual villages.

He maintains that it will be practically impossible for any more territory to get into the district, as the district has all it can take care of now. On the other hand additional territory would mean greater taxing power.

Now comes the question whether the combined cost of the village's share in the trunk sewer, plus the cost of the village system would be greater or less than the cost of an individual system and a treatment plant. It is now possible to so treat sewage that fish will swim up to the beds, the water is that pure; such a plant is said to be operating in Homewood.

The question of cost and practicality is one of engineering. Lawyers must untangle the legal technicalities. Some will advocate one system and some the other. So when the district presents its plans to the public, which pays in every case, the voters must be informed, and ready to act.

Bremen Township Health Topics

Eleanor Gallagher, R. N.

July and August are the season for hay fever and we hope every person in the township who owns land, even if it is only a town lot, will take precaution to see that their property is free from ragweed, as this is one of the principal causes of hay fever.

Also this is the season of flies and mosquitoes, and there has been some complaints made by renters that the landlords did not furnish screens for windows and doors of living quarters, this is contrary to the State Board of Health Laws and we are complying with all State Health regulations throughout Bremen township, so any who have not screened the windows and doors of property rented for living quarters are advised to do so as soon as possible.

Malaria is becoming quite prevalent throughout the county and we would suggest that everyone be especially careful of their drinking water, if in doubt of its purity boil it before using, also avoid mosquitos as they carry disease.

Markhamites to Picnic Sunday

The Markham Citizens club will give a picnic Sunday at Peterson's Bayou on the Kankakee river. There will be no charge and everyone is invited to attend. Bring your baskets. Those attending will form at 159th and Kedzie at 8 a. m. take route 41 to Schneider, Ind., then west on River road to the bayou—a 40 mile trip.

POSEN

A surprise party was given Mrs. Elizabeth Malecha by St. Elizabeth's society, group 361, Polish Women's Alliance of America on Tuesday of last week, the name day of both the society and their president. She was presented with a nice fern. Mrs. Frank Mech, her daughter, won first in the bunco which followed.

WOMEN'S CLUB PICNIC

On Friday, July 25th the Woman's club is planning a picnic for members and their friends. They will meet at the club house at eleven o'clock in the morning and spend the day at the Forest Preserve, 143rd and Harlem ave. Each one is asked to bring something to add to the lunch, which will be more of a covered dish luncheon than a picnic lunch. Games will be played and everyone is assured a good time.

FRED BAKER'S CAR STOLEN

A car belonging to Fred Baker, 167th and Saramento, Markham, was stolen at 9 o'clock Saturday night while he was at the swimming pool in Homewood. Mr. Baker saw the thieves take the car; he ran after them two blocks on foot, but they made their get-away.

Man Shot Monday, 147th and Western

Leo Fago, 15 E. 120th st., was shot in the back by an unknown assailant early Monday morning near Feshart's roadhouse at 147th and Western, Posen. Two parties of three young couples had an argument; they were ordered to leave by Specialville police, but after a renewal of the quarrel Mr. Fago was shot. He was taken to the Ingalls Memorial hospital, at Harvey, in a serious condition.

Stanley Piecek, garage man from across the street, is said to have pursued the fleeing man, wrecking a Packard belonging to Sgt. Byers of the Specialville police.

The following members of the party were held by county police: Frances Brown, 34 E. 109th st., Mildred Yavenu, 15307 Vine ave., Harvey; Marge Orms, 10825 Eggleston ave., and James Connors, 444 E. 88th st. Nap Mercier, 190th and Vernon ave. was released.

Delicatessen to Open Next Week

The Uptown Delicatessen, a new business in Midlothian, will be opened at 4035 147th on Saturday of next week. R. G. Mason and E. H. Searle, who have resided here for the past five years, are the proprietors.

The delicatessen will carry cold meats, cheese, salads, old New England style baked beans and brown bread, a good line of bakery goods. "Savory" canned goods and "Goldenrod" Ice Cream. There will be a line of school supplies. Light lunches will be served.

MARGARET WHITE WINS WHITE SOX TICKETS

Miss Margaret White's name is included in the group of 100 girls and boys who were chaperoned by Sally Joy Brown of the Tribune at the White-Sox Athletic game at Comisky Park yesterday, "her very anxious letter" won the invitation. This is not the first time Miss White has been invited to join the group. Last week she accompanied them to a Roosevelt Theatre party and on several occasions she has had letters printed in the city papers.

R. I. PROVIDES HOTEL

Realizing the benefits of suburban life, the Rock Island has favored us with an itinerant hotel for workmen in the form of two box cars conveniently placed in the center of town.

FIRE DRILL

At fire drill Friday evening the volunteers decided to pump out the hole left by the old Robinson water tank. Leaving the garage at 7:42 they arrived at the tank, ran out 350 feet of hose, got up 150 lbs. of pressure throwing a 300 foot stream of water by 7:48, just 6 minutes. Pretty good time for amateurs!

MIDLOTHIAN

Mrs. Wm Erp, Mrs. Alfred Terry, Mrs. Al Clifton and Mrs. Harry Clarke motored to Des Moines, Iowa, Wednesday, where they expect to spend ten days. They expected to camp along the way and will visit Mrs. Terry's mother in Des Moines.

Mayor White and daughter, Mary, returned home this week from Eastern Iowa, where they have been spending several weeks on a farm.

The C. W. McKnight family of Chicago visited at the home of Mrs. B. F. Carter of Ridgeway ave., on Sunday.

Miss Lois Miller spent a few days in Chicago with her grandmother, Mrs. H. E. Stroup.

Mrs. Geo. Baerlin and Mrs. Wm. Erp were guests at a 1 o'clock luncheon Wednesday, Mrs. J. Horney entertaining. The ladies both came home with prizes in bunco.

The Tuesday callers of Mrs. John Vacca were; Mrs. E. Colombe and daughter of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Harring, and Mrs. Harring's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Albany of Brookfield.

Mrs. R. White visited her sister-in-law, Mrs. James White, in Beverly, Wednesday.

Mrs. Mary McCann and Mrs. Jack Miller spent Saturday evening with the J. A. Couch family in Blue Island.

Edwin Higgins, 148th st., spent his week's vacation fishing.

Mrs. R. J. Tanner's sister, Millie Angeregg, of Algoma, Wis., is here on a visit. Mr. and Mrs. Tanner are leaving Saturday for a trip through Michigan and Wisconsin.

Mrs. Kloep, Sr., of Milwaukee is visiting her son, B. L. Kloep, and his family.

"Ossie" Gromwall and his mother are motoring to South Dakota to visit Mrs. Gromwall's brother, who she has not seen in 35 years.

WHO'S WHO in MIDLOTHIAN

Eleanor Gallagher, R. N. Bremen Township nurse of the Cook County Public Welfare Bureau, was born on a farm in Butler County, Iowa, in May 1870.

Her parents and grandparents went from Chicago to Iowa about 1860 and were among the pioneer settlers of Butler County. Her grandfather, Peter Coyle, was the first county clerk of Butler County.

There were many tribes of Indians roaming the hills and prairies of Iowa at that time and one of her earliest recollections is of wandering off to her uncle's woods and visiting the tribes of Indians camped there.

She received her education in the grades at St. Peter's school, Quincy, Illinois; spent 3 years at boarding school at Sacred Heart Academy, Ackley, Iowa; spent several years at home on the farm in Iowa, and entered training as a nurse in St.

Forest Ridge Garden Cub Notes

There were 34 gardens judged and a 5 lb. bag of fertilizer was presented to each child planting a garden. The second judging will be with in the next week. The following were leading: Grade 1-3 Flower Garden, James Rudd, 1st; Jr. St. Germain, 2nd; Chas. Sickle 3rd. Combination garden, Raymond Hall 1st; Frank Smith, 2nd. Grade 4-6 Flower Garden, Florence Davis, 1st; Marie Hires, 2nd; vegetable Ohrville Hires 1st; Margaret Ray 2nd. Combination Garden, Ruth Staples 1st; Mary Smith and Victoria Rasetti 2nd. Grade 7-8. Flower, Arthur Gray and Lucy Trumpy, first. Vegetables, Lucy Trumpy first, Jerry Gray 2nd.

Gardens over one acre Glen Berge 1st; Orland Ward 2nd; Robert Billows 3rd.

OAK FOREST

Mrs. B. J. Reiser and daughter, Mrs. James Hickey and children are spending a week's vacation in Benton Harbor, Michigan.

The Guild of the Oak Forest Lutheran church gave a shower in honor of Mrs. Ernest Karsten, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Frank Lyman. Twenty ladies were present and a delightful evening was spent. Mrs. J. Horney entertained the Community Club at a fried chicken luncheon at 1 o'clock Wednesday. Bunco was played in the afternoon, and prizes were won by Mrs. Abbie Adler and Mrs. George Baerlin and Mrs. Wm. Erp of Midlothian.

Mr. and Mrs. John Daiker of Oak Forest motored to Peoria for the 4th.

Miss Dorothy Adler celebrated her birthday with a group of friends and relatives at Flint Lake, Indiana last Sunday. Mrs. Adler chaperoned the young people who arrived at the lake in time for a long swim in the warm water before eating supper in the cottage. After dancing to the tune of a portable victrola, some of the more hardy swimmers ventured into the lake for another dip. After this exercise everyone was ready for the red hot which were roasted over a blazing campfire.

The second department of the Epworth League will provide a special speaker for "Missionary Night" on Sunday, July 27th. The League is very fortunate in securing Mr. Maharajah, a Burmah who was born in India and has traveled and studied in South America and the West Indies and who is now studying at the University of Chicago. He will speak about the life and customs of the people of India and will then lead an open discussion.

The official board of the Community M. E. Church held a meeting on Sunday evening and voted to change the time of the preaching service from 8:00 p. m. to 11:00 a. m. beginning July 20th. The children will be able to attend preaching services too, as many parents are kept from evening worship by arrival of evening guests. This change is an experiment which we believe will be successful.

The Misses Ecklund entertained guests from Chicago over Sunday.

The daily vacation Bible School was a great success. Miss Nelson of Rockford and those who assisted her from here are to be congratulated for what they accomplished. The program given Friday evening eve was enjoyed by all who attended.

John McCallum is improving the Mary of Nazareth hospital in Chicago in 1906. After graduating in 1909, she had charge of the outpatient department at Children's Memorial hospital, Chicago, for a year. She was assigned to help develop the Infant Welfare work in St. Louis in 1910, with the Visiting Nurse Association of that city. After 2 years in this work, Miss Gallagher took up private duty nursing for five years in St. Louis.

Returning to Chicago she was assigned to her first Public Health work with the Chicago Tuberculosis Institute in 1917; serving on this staff for about four years.

Then she was sent to Salina County, Ill., by the State department of health to make a Tuberculosis survey of that county, spending four months making this survey and accumulated enough information to warrant putting on a permanent nurse.

On returning to Chicago she spent a year with the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanatorium field staff.

In 1922 she took the Civil Service examination and was assigned to the staff of Cook County Rural Nurses, and for the past 8 years has worked on the south side of Cook County.

Must Register to Vote in Fall

B. W. Snow, chairman of the Cook County Republican Central Committee has mailed letters to all precinct committeemen in the county outside of Chicago, warning them that the legislature has passed a law that all voters living outside of the city must be registered on one of the two registration days in order to vote November 4th.

The registration days will be on September 27th and October 7; no one can be sworn in or vote by affidavit on November 4th. The committeemen are urged to get out every voter of their party on one of the registration days.

Posen Adheres to Proceeding

At a meeting of the Posen board on Friday of last week a public hearing was held on the sewer project which was recently withdrawn from court and proceedings started again. After hearing four or five objectors, the board voted to adhere to the proceedings and go ahead.

MARKHAM

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Weinberger, Markham's newly-weds, have returned from a most enjoyable trip through the Ozark mountains, St. Louis, Springfield and Sparland. At Forest Park, St. Louis, they particularly enjoyed seeing the many Lindbergh trophies—including gold keys from many nations and the form of an airplane chisled from a diamond.

A surprise party was given Conrad Roesner Sunday when 12 children and friends gathered at his home.

Thomas Dillon of Joliet and Mr. and Mrs. Malone of Chicago visited Mr. and Mrs. Stodd on Sunday.

Mrs. Landeck and daughter Elsie of Chicago spent the Fourth with her son Paul Landeck of Markham.

Mrs. George Hartman and Mrs. Fred Hartman and baby of Homewood spent Sunday of last week with Mrs. Charles Smith of Markham.

The James Tesar family have purchased a new Ford from Kreis Bros. Garage.

appearance of his place with a coat of paint.

The Epworth League gave a party at the home of Miss Lillian Troy Wednesday evening. It being the 4th anniversary of the League all charter members were urged to attend.

Miss Margaret Meilner entertained her cousin from Chicago over Sunday.

Mrs. John McCallum is visiting her daughter in Joliet this week.

The Smith family moved to Gary, Indiana Monday.

Sylvester Fries and Marie Bonway were married Saturday evening at 7:00 p. m. A party was given at the home of the bride's parents for the friends and all enjoyed a good time and got home in the wee hours of the morning.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Meilner are spending a week with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. McCallum.

School Warrants Sold In Tinley

The contractor on the new Midlothian Public school has been seriously hampered by the refusal of Blue Island and other banks to advance any money on the $27,000 of warrants held by him. Successful completion of the work was assured, however, when Fred Goebel took the warrants to Tinley Park and sold them to seven or eight Tinley residents. The roof will be completed by August 1; the laying of the concrete slabs over the steel trusses started this week.

Members of the school board say that prospects are excellent for the financing of the remainder of the work.

Empty Trunk Causes Excitement; Officers Called

County supervisor Otto Ziebell was called by Mrs. Edward Mosel on Friday evening with the report that a trunk, thought to contain a body, had been found at 139th and the Rock Island tracks.

Taking tools to force the trunk and accompanied by a crowd, Mr. Ziebell, with the coroner's number in his pocket, went to 139th st. Breaking open the trunk, it was found empty. A dead dog was found forty feet away, causing the odor noticed by passers-by.

Midlothian Legion Notes

Plans are now under way to hold one of the largest entertainments and dances that has ever been attempted by Post 691 to be held in Clarke's Barn the latter part of August.

Radio stars of national prominence are going to be present and in view of the fact that space in the barn is limited, admission will have to be made by reservation.

The Legion Safety Road Markers have been shipped from Minneapolis and will be installed during the next week or ten days. These signs are very attractive and will help materially as a safety factor.

Work has been started on the erecting of a new sign on the roof of our headquarters. Electric lights will be turned on it every night. The sign will be captioned "The American Legion and Auxiliary Post 691, Midlothian, Ill."

The American Legion is the greatest service organization in existence. It gives every man who served in the World War, regardless of his position in the community an opportunity to work for the betterment of his community. In our community service projects we take in men from every group in the community.

In order to foster a greater magnitude of service work that we contemplate our Post will have to be augmented by every ex-service man in Midlothian. Why not join our Post to-day? Come to our meeting July 23rd at our headquarters 41st ave. and 414th; we have a big social surprise.

TIE AT GUN SHOOT

Clyde Rice of Tinley and Harry Quinlan of Harvey tied, with a score of 48½, at the gun shoot at the Blue Park Gun Club, in Markham, Sunday afternoon. They will settle the argument with guns, in a friendly way of course, next Sunday.

Ten members of the Olympia Gun club will also be there to compete, starting a series of three shoots.

RACING POSTPONED

The races scheduled at Stodd's track Sunday were postponed on account of rain. They will be run off this Sunday at 154th and Kedzie. Among the features are the race of a Ford against a horse, a saddle race between two young ladies and a harness race between Magistrate Stodd and a "beautiful young lady".

DEMOCRATIC CLUB ANNOUNCEMENTS

By Frank Mech
The Bremen township Democratic club has elected John Clarke district committeeman of the 16th district, which consists of all Bremen township.

District 15 consists of the town of Worth and district 23 consists of the town of Calumet. These have only recently been redistricted.

BURGARS WORK HERE

Phantom burglars took out a plate glass window of the A. & P. store here on Monday last week, placed the window against the shelves and took about 20 packages of cigarettes. In their search for money they moved various articles, but left everything in neat piles—displaying a nice consideration for the feelings of the manager. It is said that similar "jobs" had been recently pulled in Chicago, Harvey and Blue Island.

Invited To Meet On Monday

Three business men started discussing organization Sunday morning, they gathered in a few more and decided to call a general meeting of all business men in Midlothian to plan a definite association.

The place of meeting will be the portable school on 147th st.; time, 8:30 p. m. With almost fifty business people in the village, there is thought to be plenty of material to form a good, live group.

Not only merchants are included in the invitation to meet, but every man who is engaged in business here in the village, whether it be contracting, real estate, drayage, professional services or what have you? It will be the object of the association to further the interests of the village in general and the business people in particular.

Fred Goebel, president of the Tinley Park Lions Club will speak on what the Lions have meant to Tinley Park. As he is one of the best known business men in the township his advice will mean much to Midlothian merchants.

Markham to Get Bids on Water Job

The Board of Local Improvements of Markham voted last Thursday to advertise for bids on Special Assessment No. 10, a small water job affecting the Elmore properties. Bids will be opened at the next regular meeting.

A communication from the village engineers reported the complaint from Oak Forest on low pressure was in error, but that the main was not delivering capacity due to a collection of air at a hill top. The water committee was authorized to tap the main and let out the air.

The police report for June was submitted, showing 45 arrests, $194 in fines assessed and $154 collected. Magistrate Stodd also submitted his report.

On the paving job the committee reported that no petition had been submitted, so no action could be taken at that time.

Baseball

Sunday the Aces won a hard-fought game from the Eagles.

(Editor's note—That is as much information as we have been able to get from our sports writers. Apparently the Aces were so busy celebrating and the Eagles so cast down by defeat that neither could even remember the line-up. Then too, Manager Foster of the Aces is excited because he has found a pitcher to take Rafferty's place by 1950—a son, Wolford William, weight 9½ lbs., was born to Mr. and Mrs. Foster on July 11.)

POSEN ACES

The Posen Aces, continued their winning ways by walloping the Harvey Arrows Baseball Team, by a score of 7 to 2 at the Posen Baseball Field. The outstanding feature of the game was the pitching of Louis Christie, who fanned 12, and walked 5. Christie displayed his best pitching with men on the bases. The hitting of H. Heintz, Mason and Czachura accounted for the most of the Aces runs.

The Posen Aces, play the Blue Island Shamrocks, July 20th, next Sunday, at the Posen Baseball Field. A record crowd is expected. Follow the Posen Aces. See you next Sunday.

Maroons Also Win

The Posen Maroons baseball team travelled to Calumet Park to engage the -Bella's. The Maroons were victors in this game by a score of 6 to 4. Daily, the 17 year old Pitcher, displayed wonderful twirling. It was only last week that the Maroons Baseball Team re-organized and are now open for games. Want a game? One of our well known tonsorial artists, Joe Ruzzo has gone on a two weeks vacation in Wisconsin where he will fish and have a real vacation.

The Orland State Bank has purchased a set of leather up holstered chairs and a large directors table of the Continental Bank of Chicago.

The furniture has been placed in the room of the bank directors of the local bank.

The entrance drive of the soldier camp has been beautified with new flower beds bordered with stones which have been painted white.

The adult Bible class of the Orland Park M. E. church enjoyed a delightful lawn social Wednesday evening at the Wm. Beagley home. There was a good crowd and all had a fine time.

Work of remodeling the local milk plant is going on. A cooling system is being installed.

FRANKFORT

Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Clark and son Jack of Oak Park and the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Clark, returned home from down state, where they visited with relatives.

Mrs. Frank Lühning who has been ill in Silver Cross hospital for the past four weeks, is slowly improving.

Mrs. Helen Reitz of Peotone, is visiting with friends here.

John Staff, E. J. & E. R. R. agent here and Wm. Folkers are spending their vacation in Minnesota, fishing.

The Epworth League of the Green Garden M. E. church gave an ice cream social Tuesday evening in Andres.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Pfeifer spent Tuesday evening in Joliet in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Muff.

Catherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Prinal, celebrated her 8th birthday last Friday afternoon in her home. Games and contests formed the diversions. Sixteen small friends were present. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. August Knater were entertaining relatives from Detroit, Mich., over the week end.

The Pfeifers reunion will be held in Frankfort Grove next Sunday July 20.

Viola Rehberg is enjoying a vacation from her duties at Scheer and Stellwagen store.

Mrs. Ferdinand Bobzin is ill in her home. Her daughter, Mrs. Henry Bruggeman, is caring for her.

Loretta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Reimer, is ill with the measles.

The small children of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Geneses are ill with whooping cough.

Mrs. John Boettcher of Joliet, spent Tuesday with her mother, Mrs. Henry Schroth and also attended the funeral of Harry Neckrauer.

Frank Kohlhaugen left Sunday for Rochester, Minn., where he will undergo treatments at Mayo Bros., clinic.

Consolation

The journey through life goes through many dark tunnels, and the darker and longer they are the more we appreciate the glory of sunshine afterward and the grandness of the view.—A Woman's Confessional.

All But the Moo

THE tin cows of our days are not all made for children. The tin cans of milk which are our modern tin cows serve millions of people and contain all the same nutritional elements, everything, in fact, except the moo of the original animal. This one omission is fortunate, for think of the racket that would arise in groceries and on kitchen and pantry shelves if all of the millions of cans of condensed, evaporated and dried milk in this country should suddenly begin to bellow.

Tempting Desserts

While no food can be considered a perfect food, milk in all of its marketable forms, according to eminent scientific authority, comes about as close to this ideal as we can hope to find in a single product. So here are some recipes calculated to make your children like the beneficial contents of these modern tin cows.

Chocolate Bread Pudding: Soak two cups stale bread crumbs for thirty minutes in two cups hot evaporated milk and two cups hot water. Melt two squares chocolate, add two-thirds cup sugar, and thin with a little of the liquid from the bread. Add to the bread mixture with two slightly beaten eggs. Add one-fourth teaspoon salt and one teaspoon vanilla, and bake in a moderate oven until firm and a knife comes out clean. This serves eight.

Evaporated Milk Banana Ice Cream: Scald four cups evaporated milk and one cup water with one cup sugar in a double boiler, then cool. Add five ripe well-mashed bananas and two tablespoons lemon juice, and freeze as any ice cream.

East Indian Time

The Samvat year is generally used in reckoning time in India, except in Bengal. According to tradition it was introduced by King Vikrama in 58 B. C. A Samvat given date represents the year last completed.

Self-Knowledge

A well-known clergyman says every man should keep a diary so that he may know himself. The average man introduced by King Vikrama in 58 B. C. knows himself well enough to be certain that if he started a diary he wouldn't keep it up.

DEATHS BY DROWNING AVERTED BY SIMPLE LIFE-SAVING INSTRUCTIONS

The lives of many persons lost by drowning during the swimming season could be saved if only some one present at the time of the tragedy had taken a few minutes to familiarize himself with the prone pressure method of artificial respiration.

This easily-learned and simple method of life-saving is equally effective in cases of asphyxiation or electric shock.

It is approved and taught by the Red Cross, Army, Navy, Bureau of Mines, American Gas Association, National Electric Light Association and by most public utility companies which insist their employees learn this effective method of first aid.—Supplied by Illinois Committee on Public Utility Information.

Follow These Instructions Even If the Patient Appears Dead.

As soon as possible feel with your fingers in the patient's mouth and throat and remove any foreign body (tobacco, false teeth, etc.). If the mouth is tight shut, pay no more attention to it until later. Do not stop to loosen the patient's clothing, but immediately begin actual resuscitation. Every moment is precious. Proceed as follows:

(1) Lay the patient on his belly, one arm extended directly overhead, the other arm bent at elbow and with the face turned outward and resting on hand or forearm, so that the nose and mouth are free for breathing. (See Figure 1.)

(2) Kneel, straddling the patient's thighs, with your knees placed at such a distance from the hip bones as will allow you to assume the position shown in Figure 1.

Place the palms of the hands on the small of the back with fingers resting on the ribs, the little finger just touching the lowest rib, with the thumb

(4) Now immediately swing backward so as to completely remove the pressure. (See Figure 3.)

(5) After two seconds, swing forward again. Thus repeat deliberately twelve to fifteen times a minute the double movement of compression and release, a complete respiration in four or five seconds.

(6) Continue artificial respiration without interruption until natural breathing is restored, or until a physician declares the patient is dead.

(7) As soon as this artificial respiration has been started and while it is being continued, an assistant should loosen any tight clothing about the patient's neck, chest or waist. Keep the patient warm. Do not give any liquids whatever by mouth until the patient is fully conscious.

(8) To avoid strain on the heart when the patient revives, he should be kept lying down and not allowed to stand or sit up. If the doctor has not arrived by the time the patient has revived, he should be given some stimulant, such as one teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia in a small glass of water, or a hot drink of coffee or tea, etc. The patient should be kept warm.

(9) Resuscitation should be carried on at the nearest possible point to where the patient received his injuries. He should not be moved from this point until he is breathing normally of his own volition and then moved only in a lying position. Should it be necessary, due to extreme weather conditions, etc., to move the patient before he is breathing normally, resuscitation should be carried on during the time that he is being moved.

(10) A brief return of natural respiration is not a certain indication resuscitation should cease. Not infrequently the patient, after a temporary recovery of respiration, stops breathing again. The patient must be watched, and if natural breathing stops, artificial respiration should be resumed at once.

(11) In carrying out resuscitation it may be necessary to change the operator. This change must be made without losing the rhythm of respiration.

and fingers in a natural position, and the tips of the fingers just out of sight. (See Figure 1.)

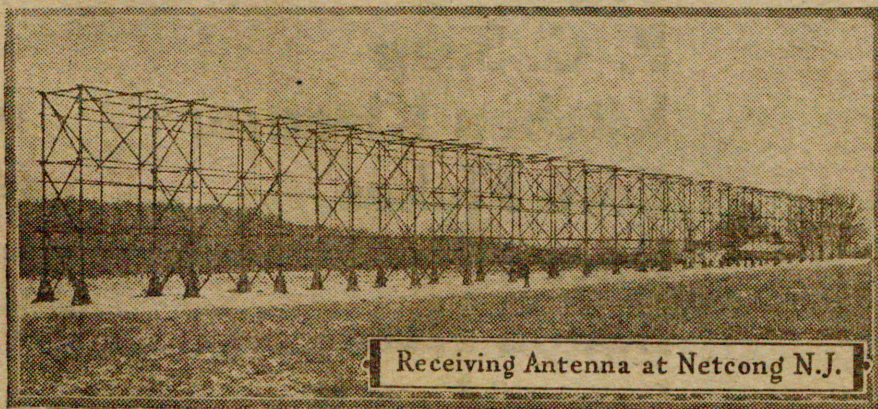

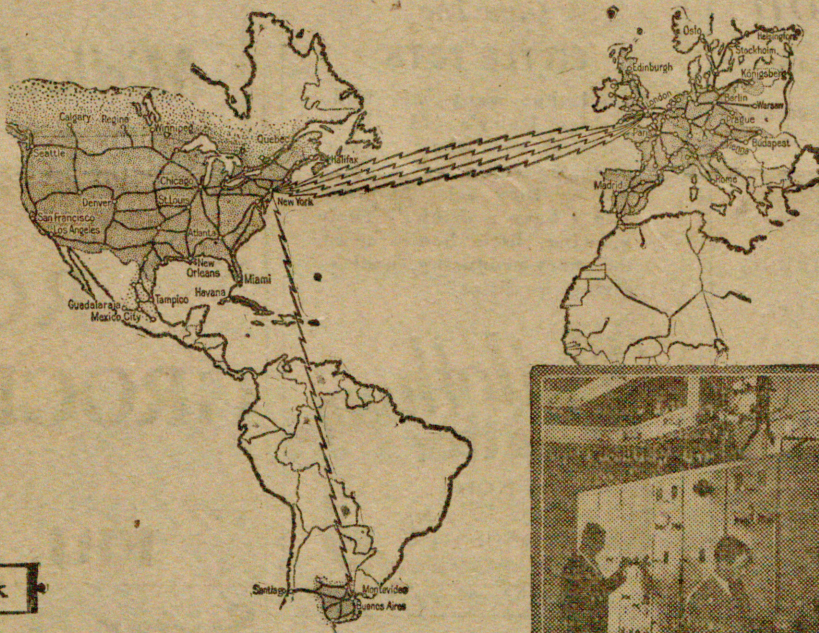

(3) With arms held straight, swing forward slowly so that the weight of your body is gradually brought to bear upon the patient. The shoulder should be directly over the heel of the hand at the end of the forward swing. (See Figure 2.) Do not bend your elbows. This operation should take about two seconds.

Learn every word of the foregoing, and learn it now! Don't wait for an accident. It is too late then.

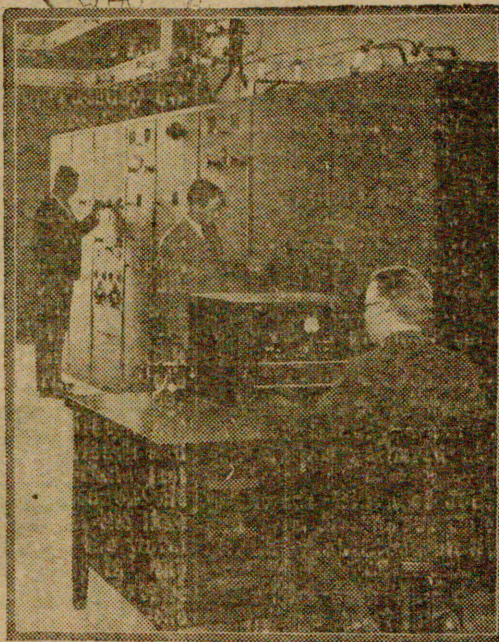

Radio Telephone Circuit of 5,300 Miles Connects Bell System Telephones With South America

Overseas Switchboard at New York

Receiving Antenna at Netcong N.J.

Power Panel and Control Turret

Slowly, but surely, progress in the science of communication is shrinking the earth's surface and conquering time and space. A little more than three years ago, the first commercial radio telephone channel from North America to Great Britain was opened by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. From the very beginning this trans-Atlantic telephone service has been popular with the public, and it has steadily gained in usage until now there are four radio telephone channels operating between the continents of North America and Europe.

April 3 last witnessed the opening by the same company of telephone service between North and South America, and the interconnection of 20,000,000 telephones in the United States, as well as all the telephones in Cuba, and all the principal points in Mexico and Canada, with the telephone stations in the Argentine Republic and the cities of Santiago, in Chile, and Montevideo in Uruguay. Thus, we are shortening the distance between our southern neighbors as we have already shortened the distance across the Atlantic Ocean to the continent of Europe.

The first link between the continents of Europe and North America was a long wave radio telephone circuit which has since been supplemented by three short wave circuits.

For various scientific reasons, the first telephone link between South America and the United States is a short wave circuit 5,300 miles in length, which connects the overseas radio stations of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in this country with the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation's stations in the vicinity of Buenos Aires.

The service will be in operation for eight hours daily, 9 A. M. to 5 P. M., New York time. The rate for a three minute conversation between New York and all points in the Province of Buenos Aires is $36. For calls to and from other parts of the United States, the same charges will be added to this base rate as are now added to the rate for trans-Atlantic service.

During the first twenty-four hours of service between the two continents, 51 calls were received from various portions of the United States to Buenos Aires and to Santiago. The service was opened by Mr. Walter S. Clifford, President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, after introductory speeches had been made by President Hoover and Acting Secretary of State Cotton. The President spoke to President Ibanez of Chile, then President Juan Campisteguy of Uruguay, and Mr. Cotton, the Acting Secretary of State, to the Uruguayan Minister for Foreign Affairs. The President, as will be remembered, visited these South American countries shortly before he took office, and he expressed his appreciation at being able to converse with these gentlemen again by means of the radio telephone.

Let us, for a moment, consider the pathway of Mr. Hoover's call from Washington, D. C. Mr. Hoover's voice traveled from Washington to the overseas switchboard located at the offices of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company at 24 Walker Street, New York, and from there by wire to Lawrenceville, N. J., where the overseas transmitter amplified Mr. Hoover's voice and sent it over the thousands of miles to the receiving station located a few miles from Buenos Aires. When people talk from South America, their voices travel to a transmitter located at Harlingham, Argentina, and from there, by radio, to the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's receiving station at Netcong, N. J. Here the voice is re-amplified and sent by wire over the regular telephone system to the person speaking on the American end of the circuit.

For the present there will only be a single talking circuit composed of two radio channels. These channels will be operated on three different pairs of wave lengths, each pair being used for a different time of day. Running in a direction at a slight angle to the meridian and having its center near the Equator, the circuit encounters more favorable average other conditions than exist on the trans-Atlantic circuits, which makes for more reliable transmission. Because of these generally better conditions, and also because of the comparatively short twilight period, extreme variations in the quality of transmission over the circuit are materially reduced. Shortly after the ceremonies at which President Hoover, Mr. Gifford and others were present, the operators began putting through the calls already filed by a score of subscribers at both ends of the circuit. While most of the calls were from people in New York City, some of them involved such distant points as Los Angeles, San Francisco, and, in South America, Santiago.

President Hoover's greeting to President Juan Campisteguy of Uruguay contained the following, which expresses the President's views on the importance of international communication: "These increasingly numerous ties, created through the cooperation of scientific endeavor and commercial necessities, form the material part of the strong bond, the other part of which is intellectual and spiritual fraternity, that fortunately exists between our two countries."

Miles of Conveyors in Ford Plant

This picture shows two types of conveyors in use in the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company.

AN ENDLESS chain conveyor, three and a half to four miles long, said to be the longest in the world, has just been completed at the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, Michigan. On it parts of Ford cars in the process of manufacture are transported from one building to another and completed parts are carried direct to railroad cars for shipment to branch assembly plants.

The conveyor, which carries its cargo on suspended hooks, has a daily capacity for 300,000 parts weighing over 2,000,000 pounds. It supplants freight cars and trucks which have been used for the transfer of many parts from one point to another in the Ford plant.

This longest conveyor of them all is a development of the Ford policy that nothing should be done by manual labor that could better be done by machine.

In the early days of his manufacturing career, Mr. Ford devised the assembly line—a moving track on which cars in the process of assembly went to the workmen instead of the workmen carrying parts to the car. The assembly line, perfected in many ways, is now used by automobile manufacturers generally.

The value of the conveyor in reducing physical labor, in saving time, in preserving system and in cutting costs soon became apparent and its use was extended to other purposes about the plant. Now there are literally miles of conveyors of various types in the Ford plant. Some of them carry parts from one building to another and are carefully synchronized so that the parts arrive at precisely the right moment and in the exact spot where they are needed. Others transport red hot ingots of steel weighing nearly a ton each. Still others move outgoing shipments.

If it were not for the conveyors, according to officials of the Ford Company, mass production would not be possible on its present scale.

I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help. My help cometh from the Lord, which made heaven and earth. He will not suffer my foot to be moved: He that keepeth thee will not slumber. Behold, He that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep.

The Lord is thy keeper: the Lord is thy shade upon thy right hand. The sun shall not smite thee by day, nor the moon by night. The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil: he shall preserve thy soul. On June 29th the Epworth League motored to Hammond Beach where they held their regular service in the open afterwards partaking of the advantages of bathing and other forms of recreation.

July 6th the Forest preserve was the place chosen for the regular service consisting of songs, scripture readings, topic discussion all taking part, concluding with praise and prayer after which a short and spiritual time of recreational exercises was enjoyed by all. We would advise careful consideration before hastily crossing certain spots in this grove as this may mean the cleaning of boots, etc., which was the only thing even mildly marred the splendid evening under the trees.
For the near future a trip will be planned to Evanston and points north where places of interest will be visited in connection with the regular League work.

OWNERS OF RADIO
IN EVERY STATE

An interesting insight into the widely distributed ownership of the radio industry in the United States is given by the summary and classification of the stock of the Radio Corporation of America, the largest radio organization in the world. The latest statement shows stockholders in every State in the Union. Ninety-nine per cent of the class A common stock is owned in the United States, much of it being in the hands of small investors.

Although there is a good showing in the industrial East, as in the case of all stocks, New York State having 1,291 class A common stockholders, Illinois has 357 stockholders in the same classification. California lists 134 class A common stockholders, almost as many as New Jersey, which has 140.

Among the thirty-four foreign countries in which there are holders of class A common stock are such widely separated points as Argentina, Austria, British Guiana, Honduras, Egypt, India, Venezuela, Norway, Japan and Ireland.

Artist's drawing of a corner of the library in a beautiful modern home.

Whether in house or apartment, Telephone Convenience is demanded in the modern home. "Don't walk to talk" expresses a new idea of comfort and convenience. Extension telephones (additional telephones located at vantage points in the home and connected to the original telephone line) eliminate the necessity of climbing up or down stairs or going from one end of the apartment to the other to make calls or answer the telephone. The cost of this additional touch of comfort is surprisingly small.

ANOTHER VICTORY

FOR THIS REGULAR
 STOCK MOTOR OIL

CLOSE ON THE HEELS
 OF ITS ACCOMPLISHMENT AT

INDIANAPOLIS MAY 30, CONOCO WINS 3RD, 4TH, AND 5TH PLACES
 AT ALTOONA AT BETTER THAN ONE HUNDRED MILES PER HOUR

Frank Farmer, in a Miller Special, "placed" third with an average speed of 102.2 miles per hour. "Shorty" Cantlon, in a Miller-Schofield Special, was fourth with 101.5 miles per hour. "Speed" Gardner was fifth in a Miller Front Drive Special. All three used CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil in this convincing demonstration of the qualities of this regular "stock" motor oil. At Altoona, as at Indianapolis, this was the first time that a stock oil had placed so high in the finish of the race.

The story of the Altoona race cannot be told without reference to the accomplishment of CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil at Indianapolis. For it was in that 500-mile classic that the stamina of this new oil was impressed on the racing fraternity. After observers had seen the oil at the close of the Indianapolis race; after they had observed its full body and good color as it came from Dave Evans' motor, the word went out that CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil had displayed the qualities necessary to solve the lubrication problems of racing motors. CONOCO had earned the respect of this most skeptical group—and earned it fairly.

In view of the Indianapolis results, it was only natural for a majority of the drivers at Altoona to choose CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil for America's fastest competitive race.

And as these cars whizzed around the boards at Altoona on June 14, CONOCO again proved its worth in a field previously dominated by castor blends—a field which other stock oils have repeatedly tried to enter without success! So chalk up another victory for CONOCO

Germ-Processed Motor Oil, close on the heels of Indianapolis... a victory won with the same stock Germ-Processed oil that you can buy at any Red Triangle station.

These CONOCO victories have a definite meaning to every one who drives a car. They substantiate every claim that was made for it when the oil was introduced last November.

You can experience the safety and economy of this oil by stopping at the next Red Triangle Station and asking for:

Last Friday and Saturday the hot wave made the mercury climb over the 100 mark. A thermometer hung in the sun in front of the News-Bulletin office climbed to 120 degrees within half an hour. Nels Sorensen who is employed in the La Salle st. station said that the thermometer in the train shed registered 109 Saturday.

The Thursday afternoon closing of business places in Mokena went in to full effect this Thursday. Only a few of the places remain open. Those remaining open are: Martie's Ice Cream Parlor, Cooper & Hoster, Post Office, News-Bulletin and the Barber Shop.

Several new monuments have been erected in the St. John cemetery within the past few weeks.

Building operations on the dwelling of Willis Hall is progressing very nicely.

FRANKFORT

The tenth ward regular Republican Club of South Chicago, held their picnic at the Frankfort Grove last Sunday July 13.

Elmer A. Brown, committeeman man, Hugh P. Davis, general chairman were the men in charge. A large crowd filled the grove to capacity. Beside many cars, 10 buses brought the people to the grove. It is estimated about 2000 people were present. Races, baseball, indoor ball and other games were played. Dancing was free to all.

Delphia and Ruth Bettenhausen of Chicago have been the guests of Eloise Kohlhagen.

The Royal Neighbors met last Wednesday in Woodman hall for their social hour.

Rev. Samuel Weishaar visited with his mother in Indiana recently who is ill.

Invention, used for refrigerating perishable products in transit, for preventing the melting of ice cream in small packages, and in preserving other food products. Under proper conditions a pound of it will do the work of about 16 pounds of ordinary ice, and when it "melts" the solid material passes off as a gas, leaving absolutely no water or other residue.

It has been manufactured for commercial purposes chiefly by burning coke in blast furnaces, and this marks the first time that carbon dioxide gas—the same gas that causes the bread to rise or the bottled soda to bubble—has been taken from nature and utilized in its natural state for refrigerating purposes.

Don C. Hall Says—

It would appear that cheap Journalism of today indulges a penchant for cynical, sarcasm which is certainly not in keeping with the requirements or demands of the intelligent who eagerly scan the Editorial columns of the leading Newspapers from day to day.

The Terre Haute (Indiana) Tribune commenting editorially on the demise of the eminent author, scientist and deep thinker, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, presents a striking illustration of their weakness for ridicule and satire, betraying a lack of confidence in the sincerity of those whose depth of thought and purpose are beyond the scope of their own, possibly limited, comprehension.

Quoting from the editorial mentioned:

"The creator of 'The Hound of Baskerville' was known to fame as a teller of marvelous tales, and too, for his psychic research and experiments. He and Sir Oliver Lodge have done numerous works on the subject and have come to be accepted as the chief authorities, for whatever 'authority' there is in this field. We are going to be disappointed now if Sir Arthur does not get in touch with Sir Oliver, and if the world is not let in on the broadcast. They have been so positive regarding their psychic photographs, the photographing of the aura, or the soul, as it left the body, it should be no trick for them to materialize a couple of messages, or even night letters. In case this is done it will relieve Sir Arthur's memory of the suspicion that his dabbling in the psychic had behind it the idea that it would enhance the demand for mystery stories, in the conception of which there was none more mysterious."

How refreshing to the intelligent admirer of that undoubtedly conscientious student of the realities of Human Existence and the aftermath will be the following sentiment as expressed by the youthful student Philosopher, Carlos Hall.

"The world has lost a great creative mind, a mind that was capable of not only setting forth new theories but also of accepting other points of view on the same subject."

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle the creator of the brilliant character Sherlock Holmes and his assistant Watson, has always been, in my estimation, a man of exceptional intelligence, his great imaginative powers as shown in "The Lost World" and subsequent stories, has always appealed to me. "Prof. Challenger," the principle character of the "The Lost World" is a fictitious scientist possessed of a most remarkable brain, for working out fantastic but convincing theories.

The prehistoric conditions on the inaccessible plateau in South America is an idea worthy of intensive study.

The short story "When the World Screamed" was equally interesting and showed a different line of thought entirely, although using the same character of Prof. Challenger.

As to his Spiritualistic bent, no man is in a position to question the sincerity of anyone in a matter of this kind. No sane, thinking person can doubt the existence of some power, of which we are woefully ignorant. We all live, and yet we know nothing of the life force. We all are to die sometime and still we know nothing of death, and until we do know we should not criticize the beliefs of others.

Personally, I have had some experience in matters of this kind, and I know that "mental telepathy" is an actuality. The transmission of thoughts from one mind to another can be accomplished.

To the average unthinking mind anything pertaining to Spiritism is set down immediately as a "fake", in spite of the fact that it is reasonable to believe that a great mind such as this man possessed had penetrated far along this unknown thought channel and had made discoveries in this branch of science that could not possibly be understood without a great deal of thought, and people today, as a rule, have little time or inclination to think.

Sir Arthur, has passed on to the Great Unknown and even if it is possible for him to communicate with the living, it is absurd to suppose that there is any more than a handful, comparatively speaking, who would not cry "fake" and "tap their heads" knowingly, wink, and tell their neighbors that another crazy "Ghost Hunter" tried to "put something over" on them.

And so it goes, or don't go. Anyway we have much to learn and an eminent preceptor has been called from our field of endeavor.

Pleased to learn of the signing of the Illinois waterway bill by President Hoover, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson issued a statement from Salt Lake City, Utah, where he was attending the annual conference of governors, expressing the hope that the project would be completed by 1933.

"President Hoover's approval of the rivers and harbors bill removes the last obstacle to the fulfillment of Illinois' long-felt desire for adequate water transportation to the Gulf of Mexico," the governor said.

"Had not the federal government come to the aid of Illinois, when it became apparent that the state could not finish the project because of constitutional limitations, Illinois' realization of its dream of Lakes-to-Gulf water route might have been delayed for many more years."

As a part of its centennial celebration the city of Winchester on July 5 dedicated a monument to Stephen A. Douglas. Hon. C. J. Doyle, former secretary of state of Illinois, made the dedicatory address.

The state department of public works and buildings on July 3 announced awards of contracts for road and bridge construction in Illinois totalling about $2,000,000.

Work of remodeling the Lincoln monument in Oak Ridge cemetery, Springfield, is progressing. Dismantling the four monument groups above the high shaft is practically complete. This was necessary to permit workmen to undertake the task of razing the shaft. The statuary represents the four divisions of the army. An appropriation of $180,000 was provided by the last general assembly for the remodeling of the monument.

The fourth subject whose name appears in the frieze around the outer walls of the Centennial building is George Rogers Clark, who marched at the head of the Virginia troops that conquered the Illinois country. Clark was born in Albemarle county, Virginia, November 19, 1752, and died near Louisville, Ky., February 18, 1818. He was buried in Cave Hill cemetery, Louisville, Ky.

Although the two leading coal producing states of the country showed slight increases in output during the second week of June, the general production of soft coal in the country for that week fell off 165,000 net tons, according to the United States bureau of mines. Illinois mines participated in the general decrease, showing a reduction of 21,000 net tons in the week ended June 14. The total output of Illinois shafts during that week was 722,000 net tons.

An increase in the number of reported cases of influenza points to the probability of a mild wave of the disease sweeping the state, health department officials have forecasted. Influenza, they said, travels in epidemic waves separated by periods of 33 weeks or 66 weeks. The last epidemic in Illinois ended about 66 weeks ago. Hot weather will prevent the disease from assuming a severe form, the officials believe.

Sixty-eight Illinois banks closed their doors in the year ending June 30 at the request of their boards of directors, largely on account of heavy withdrawals, State Auditor Oscar Nelson's office has announced. Twenty of them suspended operations during the first six months of the year and 48 during the past six months. During the year 31 banks liquidated through sales or mergers and 17 others formed consolidations.

Director Rodney Brandon of the department of public welfare will not retire from the state service because of his election as supreme director of the Loyal Order of Moose. Mr. Brandon, who was head of Mooseheart, before he was appointed to the welfare post by Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, has been installed as director of the Moose, succeeding Albert Ladner of Baltimore.

Illinois led the nation last year in money spent for public recreation. The yearbook of the Playground and Recreation association reveals that this state outdistanced New York, its nearest competitor, by almost $3,000,000. Illinois spent $6,413,253. Some of the largest 1929 Illinois investments in recreation were East St. Louis, $81,000; Evanston, $93,274; Peoria, $78,458; Rockford, $79,592; and Springfield, $69,126. Fifty-six Illinois towns and cities reported they maintained 1,891 public recreation areas under leadership. These figures placed the state third in the number of directed play areas maintained.

With a record of 12,825 herds of dairy cattle tested for tuberculosis during the month of May, Illinois led all other states engaged in the eradication of this disease, according to the report received by the Illinois department of agriculture from the federal bureau of animal industry at Washington. About one-ninth of the herds tested in the nation were on the farms of Illinois and about one-sixth of the 18,672, found diseased, were condemned as the result of tests performed with this state, according to the federal statistics.

Morris L. Rinehart, Rushville, and Harold Kennedy, Antioch, will be honored guests at the opening exercises of the Boys' State Fair school, August 21. Reports made by each on impressions of activities of the 1929 school have brought them this distinction.

State institutions treated and instructed 55,827 patients, inmates and pupils for the year ending June 30, 1929, according to Director Rodney H. Brandon of the state welfare department.

The colored population of the state's penal and charitable institutions increased alarmingly during the five years ending June 30, 1929. Director Rodney H. Brandon of the department of public welfare announced recently. The rate of increase for the colored wards during the five year period was 4.09 times that of all other groups. Comparison of the records for the five year period shows that while there has been a marked increase in the number of colored persons admitted for treatment at the hospitals for the insane, the "really astonishing increase has been in the number sent to prisons and juvenile institutions.

Machinery hall, originally the train shed and passenger depot on the Illinois State Fair grounds, now is being remodeled to house the poultry show and Illinois industrial exhibits during the 1930 exposition—August 16-23. The structure is one of the older buildings on the grounds, erected back before the days of motor transportation, when the citizens of Illinois came by rail and horse-drawn vehicles to attend the fair. Plans drawn by the poultry show superintendent, E. G. Horner, chief poultryman in the state department of agriculture, call for many rows of exhibition coops, extending 400 feet down through the central section of the building.

Commenting upon the fact revealed by the 1930 federal census that most of the population increase in Illinois took place in the cities, Dr. Andy Hall, state health director, warned, "Every increase in a city population makes more easily possible an explosive epidemic. Through public health departments cities have already demonstrated that almost perfect control over health matters may be exercised. The greater increase in city than in rural populations from births indicate an enormous improvement in the safety of city life. The strong continued flow of population toward the cities increases the demand for public health service for the protection of both the citizens and new comers."

A letter addressed "To the Surrogate court, Illinois U. S. A." written by a purported heir of Gen. John A. Logan was delivered to Circuit Clerk Robert G. Moore, Springfield, who was to turn the letter over to proper authorities. The writer, Mrs. M. J. Green of Toronto, Can., who says that her grandmother was General Logan's sister, says that she and her husband wish to lay claim to the estate.

Dr. Harry Woodburn Chase, former president of the University of North Carolina, has assumed his duties as the sixth president of the University of Illinois since it was founded 63 years ago. He succeeded Dr. David Kinley, who was president for the last ten years and who was connected with the school in various capacities for 37 years.

Under the supervision of Director Rodney H. Brandon of the department of public welfare, Illinois now has the first directory of probation officials that has ever been compiled in this state. Mrs. Maude G. Palmer, chief probation officer in the welfare department, told the convention of probate judges in session in Jacksonville recently. It is, Mrs. Palmer stated, the most comprehensive roster of its nature that any state has ever issued. This directory, available to all engaged in the probation service, enables the officials to get into communication with the proper authorities in all counties that carry on this work.

Miss Price of the library extension division, Springfield, says that travel interest is by no means limited to those who are planning a summer trip to Europe. A good many persons in Illinois keep up with their gad-about friends by reading. Even a slight knowledge of art, sculpture and architecture will add to the interest in conversing with returned travelers. Art is not a vague and "high-hat" subject, but sheer natural enjoyment as presented by Lorado Taft in "Appreciation of Sculpture," by Henry Turner Bailey in "Pleasure from Pictures," and by Lewis Mumford in "Architecture." All may be borrowed from the library extension division.

A contest to determine which breed of hogs produces the finest porkers for the market will be staged this year for the first time as a new section of the swine show at the Illinois State fair.

John D. Willard, research associate for the American Association for Adult Education, speaking before the American Library association at its recent annual conference held in Los Angeles, stated that public libraries are the greatest single agency of adult education in urban America. Country people in Illinois, with one exception, are handicapped in the lack of county libraries. Until modern county library service is attained, Illinois rural readers must largely depend upon the free and willing service of the library extension division at Springfield.

FAVOR EMBROIDERED MATERIALS; SHEER WEAVES MUCH IN DEMAND

INTEREST in embroidered materials has been running high among women who have enjoyed the return of that something called the "feminine" to the mode. There is something very dainty, crisp and winsome about an eyelet embroidered blouse. A month or two ago when we first began seeing them in the smartest shops, they looked a bit quaint, and grandmotherly; but lo! and behold they're now simply adorable, and once more accepted as being very modern and not at all quaint—though our grandmothers did wear them!

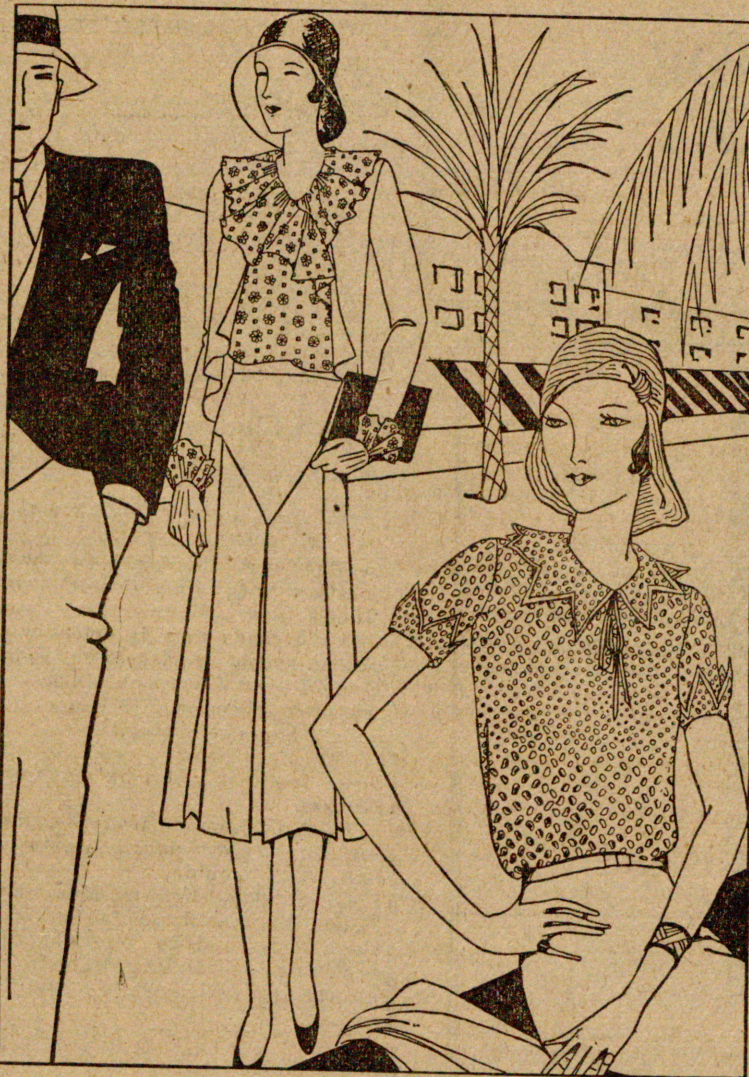

The great majority of these embroidered materials with which the Sheer Weaves in Favor.

It's the sheerness of weaves which counts for chic and for that which is most feminine and lovely this summer. Seeing which airy fairy chiffons and filmy meshed nets become friendly rivals in the present-day fabric realm. Choosing either or both, women of fashion may be happily confident of smartly answering the call of the midsummer mode.

fashion market is well stocked are embroidered in America with American yarns—usually durenized cotton, which is simply another way of saying, by means of a general word, quality-mercerized cotton.

Illustrated are two of the most adorable blouses we've seen. One is long sleeved with frill cuffs, and Byronic, ruffly collar developed in daisy eyelets embroidered in pale peach duren. The background material is batiste. The other, short sleeved blouse, has a ten-pointed star collar and star-point cuffs cut flat without ruffling. The background material is baby blue voile embroidered also by American experts in suavely lustrous duren in an irregular all-over eyelet motif.

Not the least of the charm of the new eyelet-embroidered blouse is its unique color effect, in that it combines beige, brown and red net in a strikingly handsome manner. The top of this gown is of beige net with full-gathered skirt of brown, the uneven hemline of which is outlined with bands of beige and red net. A scarf of the brown net ties around the throat.

Many chapters could be written about net as seen through fashion's eye. In the first place every sort of net functions with honors on the summer style program, from cotton to silk, from fine mesh to coarse, from printed to plain.

A smart note is being sounded in the employment of net for evening and dressy afternoon wear in rich dark street colors such as navy or pirate blue, forest green, spanish red and an entire range of browns. Make exquisite coloring. With the skirt and jacket (often a bolero) suit of black crepe, it is the fashion to wear an eyelet-patterned blouse either in pale pink or pale blue. Of course any of the pastel tints are in vogue for these sheer tuck-ins but the two colors mentioned are "Frenchy," imparting an air of having come from across seas to any black or navy costume with which they are worn.

Note in the case of the blouse on the standing figure that the frilly collar is worn over the bolero-like jacket. Most of the summer blouses are made just that way.

VEGETABLES AND FRUITS

Watercress is an excellent blood purifier, which we need to remind ourselves about each year.

Lettuce is a narcotic in effect, soothing to the nerves, and excellent for sufferers from insomnia. Shakespeare said, "Did I eat any lettuce to supper last night that I am so sleepy?"

Tomatoes are good for a torpid liver, but should be avoided by gouty people.

Spinach is called the broom of the blood, good for constipation and excellent for kidney troubles.

Beets and potatoes put on fat.

Apples, carrots and brazil nuts are good for the complexion, and cure constipation.

Celery contains sulphur, is a nerve tonic and helps ward off rheumatism.

Dates are exceedingly nourishing and are good to prevent constipation. Grapes a fine laxative and blood tonic.

Onions, a cure for nervous prostration and nervous disorders, excellent for cold and coughs, made into sirup with sugar; prevents insomnia, cures pneumonia when used as a poultice, and prevents scurvy. A most valuable vegetable.

Parsley aids digestion, prevents dyspepsia when eaten with a hearty meal.

Cabbage more easily digested raw than cooked. Contains valuable mineral matters as well as the roughage which is so necessary for complete elimination of the contents of the alimentary tract.

Bananas are a food, both wholesome and nutritious when fully ripe. Bake them, when they are not well ripened.

One of our famous beauty experts tells us to eat a dozen almonds a day for a good complexion.

Carrots and Cheese.—Mince a dozen medium-sized carrots and steam until tender. Put into a baking dish and sprinkle liberally with cheese and a little salt and pepper. Beat three eggs and stir into a pint of milk that has been heated, cook until it thickens, then pour over the carrots and cheese. Add more cheese for the top. Bake in a pan of water in the oven until brown.

New Cabbage Salad.—Shred a firm head of cabbage, blend with it plenty of freshly grated coconut and some blanched and shredded almonds. Add plenty of whipped cream to three or four tablespoonfuls of mayonnaise, season well with salt and pepper and a teaspoonful of sugar. Garnish with strips of red pepper and a few shreds of green pepper.

SUMMER FOODS

A nice cake or dessert to serve for almost any occasion, is:

Ice-Box Cake.—Put one-half pound of sweet chocolate, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-third cupful of water into a double boiler. Cook until the mixture is well blended.

ed, then add gradually the yolks of three beaten eggs; cook three minutes, then add the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Line a baking dish with waxed paper, take 24 lady fingers, or strips of sponge cake will do equally well, line the dish with the cake and pour in half of the mixture, place some of the cake on this and add more chocolate mixture and the remaining cake. Cover with a waxed paper and place on it a flat dish to press it down. Keep 12 hours in the ice box, remove the paper and serve with whipped cream.

Another dainty pudding is prepared in the same way, using the cake or lady fingers.

Lady Finger Pudding.—Make a custard, using one pint of scalded milk, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, three eggs well beaten, pinch of salt, one teaspoonful of vanilla; soften one tablespoonful of gelatin in three tablespoonfuls of hot water, cool, add to the custard, then proceed as for the "ice-box cake."

Filled Cherry Jam Cookies.—Sift three cupfuls of flour with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Sift twice to have a good blend. Cream two-thirds of a cupful of shortening, add one cupful of brown sugar, and when light add one well-beaten egg, a teaspoonful of vanilla, then add the flour and one-third of a cupful of milk alternately, beating well. Chill and roll out into rounds and place a spoonful of jam on one, cover with another. Bake until brown in a hot oven. Sprinkle with sugar before putting into the oven.

Bacon Peanut Sandwiches.—Take one-half pound of crisp fried bacon. Mix one-fourth pound of freshly roasted peanuts (ground), with salad dressing. Spread bread with butter, put a lettuce leaf on each slice and the sliced bacon, cover with a slice of buttered bread. These are good for any occasion.

Wild Creatures His Pets

According to reports from Abyssinia, Ras Tafari, the regent who made himself emperor, lives somewhat after the fashion of the feudal lords of the Middle Ages in Europe. Ras likes all kinds of wild animals and he has quite a menagerie on the grounds around the royal palace at Addis Ababa, the capital of the kingdom of Ethiopia, as it is officially called. The monarch is especially fond of lions and has several fine specimens. He makes pets of the cubs. They can often be seen sleeping or romping around the throne itself.

Press Well Cared For

Newspaper men visiting the Stockholm industrial arts exhibition this summer will be placed on a steel mast which will rise 250 feet above the exhibition grounds. Glass walls will give the journalists a fine view of the central piazza, where pageants and festivals will be held, as well as a fine panorama of the bay along the shore of which the exhibition is laid out. There will be a number of telephones in private booths so that the correspondents can communicate with their papers, and a continuous press service will keep them informed on the various events on the daily program.

CHAPTER X—Continued

Fellowes was puzzled, nonplused, by Cara's testimony for him, the more so, as Sophor twittered immediately:

"Ah, then the case is simplified! Two witnesses, two impartial witnesses, should nullify any attempt at prosecution. But I will, with your permission, Lion, proceed to take depositions, and draw them up in due order. 'Tis a safeguard—"

"We have more important work to do than accounting for the death of that scoundrel," Fellowes interrupted sternly. And for the first time he looked Cara in the eye, disturbed by the directness of her gaze, the absence of any indication of a sense of guilt. "I am under a certain embarrassment, ma'am," he continued, trying to keep his voice level, to hide from her the distraction her mere presence caused in him. "I must ask you to pledge me your word of honor you and your attendant have no documents or papers upon your persons."

"We have none," she replied readily. "And your luggage? I am loath to search it."

"You'll find naught, sir, of any import."

"You say this upon your word of honor?"

"Upon my word of honor," she repeated haughtily. "I am, whatever my sins, not one to practice lies, sir."

Ben Inglepin hemmed fustily.

"Since we are upon the subject, Captain Fellowes," he remarked, "I will give you my word of honor that no documents, other than those of a strictly business nature, are comprised in my effects."

"Then what is the purpose of your voyage, Mr. Inglepin?"

"Tis revealed in the ship's papers," Ben answered with new-found suavity. "A commercial venture to Spain. I am persuaded the war will soon be ended, and am anxious to establish satisfactory connections with Spanish clients against that eventuality."

Miss Inglepin abruptly gave them her back, and Fellowes conceived a suspicion that she meant by this action to divorce herself from connection with her father's assertion.

"I am compelled to doubt you, Mr. Inglepin," he returned. "I must detain you on deck while your luggage is examined."

The merchant shrugged his shoulders, somewhat light-heartedly, Fellowes imagined, his bearing similar to that he had displayed at Chater's house. But the realization that his task would not be easy only stiffened the Long Islander's determination.

"Cuffee," he called, and when the negro approached: "You are responsible for these three people. Keep them here until I release you."

"Yah, Mars'r Fellowe. Yo' look fo' lettah?"

"Yes." Some quality in Cuffee's tone made Fellowes expectant. "Why?"

"Yo' wait fo' see, Mars'r. Yo' no fin' him lettah below, Cuffee make juju fo' him."

Going through the True Bounty's clearance papers, manifest and log, and ransacking the contents of Chater's desk and locker, Fellowes was disposed to favor the employment of all the juju at Cuffee's command. After Ben Inglepin's cabin had been searched with equal unsuccess, he called in the Centurion's hands to hunt for loose floorboards or concealed wall closets; and they tore the cabin to pieces—quite fruitlessly.

Frustrated at each point he assailed, Fellowes was striding the fo'c's'le deck, cudgeling his wits for some nook or cranny he hadn't attempted, when Tom Grogan accosted him.

"Cuffee'll have a word with ye, Cap'n."

"About what?"

"I dunno, but he's mortal brinlin' for it. Wants to know can he bring his prisoners for'ard?"

Recalling the negro's talk of juju, Fellowes' interest was awakened.

"Tell him to come along, Tom," he directed.

And presently, Cuffee shepherded the Inglepins and the duenna to the fo'c's'le.

"Him big debbil—" Cuffee nodded to Ben Inglepin—"sweat plenty every time yo' walk on fo'c's'le, Mars'r."

"Yes?" Fellowes prompted.

"Cuffee make juju, Mars'r. Juju tell Cuffee him lettah been on fo'c's'le."

Fellowes look sidewise at Inglepin. There were tiny beads of moisture on the merchant's forehead, despite the evening cool. Cara, however, seemed serenely indifferent, and the duenna was content to click away at her beads.

"Sir, this is nonsense," protested Ben. "Will you permit a superstitious negro to incommode persons, who, for no fault of their own, happen to be in your power?"

"Where are these papers concealed?" Fellowes demanded sternly.

"Papers? Why, you have had access to all we possess."

Cara Inglepin turned away with a faint sigh. Cuffee, wandering softly about the deck, touched various objects with his hands, his eyes, close-lidded, darting snakily at the merchant's face, his lips moving in a guttural refrain:

No him bowsprit!
No him capstan!
No him paw!
No him hawse-pipe!
No him—

"Oh, my aunt, Mars'r Fellowe! Him lettah in anchor-stock!"

Fellowes stared unbelievably, but the negro pointed to Inglepin's gaping consternation while with his other hand he pulled out a plugged section in the end of one of the balks of timber that stocked the heavy bow-anchors.

"My God!" exclaimed Ben. Cara's face was devoid of feeling, but she stepped forward beside her father, squarely in front of Fellowes.

"I knew not its hiding place," she said icily, "since I refused longer to be concerned with secrecy. But 'twas I, no less than my father, who drew up that paper, and secured the signatures. And I am responsible for having interested Lord Wellington and the Prince Regent's ministers—"

Ben Inglepin emitted a groan of despair.

"Oh, have done, have done," he begged. "Are we not sufficiently exposed to this man, who would ruin us? I tell you, Cara, he and your uncle will see us hung!"

"And if we merit it, shall we complain?" she retorted. "We have made a cast, Father. Let us not weep for having lost."

From the cavity in the anchor-stock Cuffee produced a thick roll of oiled silk. It was on Fellowes' tongue to tell the negro to toss it in the sea, but Joshua's voice rang in his ears, Joshua's face, so absurdly like Ben's, appeared before his eyes. Hate! If you'll only hate enough! And after all, he had been given a trust.

"Hand it here, Cuffee," he said in a voice that was strange to him.

The scroll, inside the covering, was written in a bold, free script, and the import of its message took his breath away:

To the Right Hon. The Lord Liverpool, K. G., H.M.'s Prime Minister. My Lord:

Your petitioners, political representatives of the Federalist Party in the United States, and in especial, those sections of the Party established in New England and New York, do represent and make manifest—

Fellowes flipped through the pages to the end. Page after page of names. Names of senators, of representatives, of state officials, of those high in commerce, in the law and in the church.

Cara Inglepin nodded sadly, partly to herself, partly to him.

"That is the Federalist party," she said. "And they are Americans, Captain Fellowes, no more than Americans who disagree with you."

Fellowes gritted his teeth. "They are traitors," he disputed her. "Your errand was treason of the blackest."

Ben Inglepin cried out in agony: "Not treason! No, no! We want peace. Oh, d—n Jos!"

"Let us damn nobody, Father," Cara interrupted. "Treason or no, we need not be ashamed, for what we did we intended honorably."

She had pluck, this girl, Fellowes owned, but resolutely he curbed the admiration she inspired, bowing coldly, implacably.

"If it please you, ma'am! I must remove you all to the Centurion. Will you show the men your luggage?"

She smiled, and he had an uncomfortable sensation that she pitied him.

"It does not please me, sir; but I'll be a docile prisoner. Come, Father!"

She spoke in Portuguese to the Opportunity Seized by Men of Small Caliber

Let this fact sink into your mind—it is the non-commissioned officers of life who hurt, and against whom resentment is felt. The foremen and the petty overseers; the small men with near horizons and no vision beyond; the little go-betweens who have acquired the habit of tyranny—these form the habit of tyranny—these form the grit of the machinery of industry.

Sometimes they are for the bosses and make life hell for the men under them. Sometimes they stand for rebellion against the higher direction, but invariably their objective is power. They are ready to adopt the shibboleths of either side so long as they gain authority thereby.

If they learn the trick of oratory they become leaders on one side or the other, not because they possess the duenna, and the three walked past him, Ben Inglepin with dragging feet. Cara lightly under the weight of her greatcoat, the duenna flashing a quizzical stare from her jetty eyes. Surely, the fat woman mocked him! But why? And why should Cara Inglepin, who shortly must answer at the bar to a charge of high treason, pity him who had taken her? Ah, and why should he ask himself such questions? What did they matter? He had won; he had his vengeance. He and Joshua would crush these people as—as—Cuffee's twenty-four-pound shot should crush the Badger.

Yes, crush the Badger, crush Collishaw, crush these people—crush them all. All! He must hate her the more vigorously because she smiled, because she pitied him, because she knew how desperately he tried to hate. He stifled a groan.

"A fire under each hatch, Cuffee," he ordered. "I can't spare hands for another prize—not with the Badger to fight."

Cuffee cowered delightedly.

"Dis Chater ship him make plenty big fire. Oh, my aunt, we see him too long time off. Whoosh! Him bunn to sky. Yah, yah, yah!"

So hatred burned, Fellowes thought, annihilating, all-consuming, destroying even the soul that kindled it.

CHAPTER XI

Stormy Seas

Silence cloaked the Centurion as a twist of flame flickered up from the True Bounty's forward hatch. There was something portentous in the spectacle which impressed the roughest sailors. This was no ordinary act of destruction. It partook of the character of an execution, the condign punishment of a guilty fabric. The ship was dying, as her master had died, as perhaps her owners should die, in retribution for the offense of which she had been a part.

The Inglepins, standing apart on the brig's poop, watched with a kind of sorrowful fascination. When the masts of the dying ship crashed overboard, and a murmur of comment broke the silence on the Centurion, Cara caught her breath and Ben Inglepin's lips framed a curse.

Fellowes, eyeing his prisoners uneasily, fancied there was something symbolical for them in the True Bounty's fate, but the punishment of the ship would be accomplished in much simpler fashion than the punishment he must see dealt to them.

Soon, very soon, the charred remnants of the True Bounty would be rent asunder, and she would cease to be. But for Cara and her father remained all the long-drawn agony of public disgrace, the rancor of factional hostility, the torment of the law's delays. Surely, a punishment sufficient to satisfy any hatred, even Joshua's. Yes, even his own—except that it didn't. Perhaps nothing ever would. At the moment, he realized, he hated Chater dead as much as he had Chater living.

Ben Inglepin's voice, fretfully insistent, pierced his reflections. "Captain Fellowes! Have you not some corner to which my daughter may retire? 'Tis insufferable she should be kept on deck."

"I have arranged that she and her attendant shall occupy my cabin," Fellowes interrupted. "You, sir, may have the quarters of my second lieutenant. You will be restricted to the after-cabin and the poop. Am I plain, sir?"

"Sufficiently," Ben assented, flushing. "May we go below, then?"

"Within the limits prescribed," rejoined Fellowes.

Turning on his heel as the Inglepins left the poop, he saw that the True Bounty was gone. Only the frosty glimmer of the stars relieved the darkness.

For Fellowes the voyage now was irksome almost beyond bearing. He was impatient to come up with the Badger, and the inevitable daily contact with Cara embarrassed and harassed him. And Ben Inglepin, too, was continually in evidence, a set back on his plump face as he stared into the gray mists that hid the west.

Only the duenna remained invisible, keeping to the after-cabin in all weathers, her presence indicated by occasional gargantuan rumbles when the seasickness visited her. Yet Fellowes sensed that in some mysterious fashion of her own the fat woman maintained a surveillance upon all that occurred aboard the privateer.

One and all, the men of the Centurion were admirers of Cara. Sorry for her, perhaps, pitying her plight, old Noggle and Spencer very paternal; Breed and Noggle's sons and nephew and O'Shaughnessy, the surgeon, ardent in varying degrees; Nimrod Sophor pompously devoted.

MOSES, A COURAGEOUS LEADER

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 1:8-14; 2:1-22; 3:1-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—By faith he forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king: for he endured, as seeing him who is invisible.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Moses Doing Hard Things for God.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Moses' Call to Leadership.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—During the Impossible.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Leader, Liberator and Lawgiver.

1. The Enslaved People (1:8-22).

After Joseph's death Israel quickly grew into a nation. The amazing growth of the nation aroused the envy and fear of the new king.

1. Heavy measure of service (vv. 10-14).

Cruel taskmasters were placed over the men, forcing them to labor in building treasure cities as well as in field service. However, the more they afflicted them, the more did they multiply and grow.

2. The midwives were ordered to murder the male infants.

This measure also failed, as the midwives feared God and chose to obey Him.

3. Commanded that the male children should be cast into the river (v. 22). In God's providence this mandate failed.

11. Moses, the Deliverer, Prepared (2:1-22).

1. His birth (v. 1, 2).

Both his father and mother were of Levitical stock. Being of the same tribe, they would have a common bond of interest and sympathy. There was something striking about the child which caused his parents to believe that he was sent of God.

2. His preservation (vv. 3, 4).

Because his mother had faith she did not ignore the proper use of means. She was doubtless familiar with the place where Pharaoh's daughter came to bathe and believed that somehow through her the child would be saved. She placed the ark of bulrushes at the particular place where it would attract attention. Though the hand of God was directing in the carrying out of His plan, the steps in the process were entirely natural.

3. His education (vv. 5-10).

Moses was educated, first at his mother's knee. Here his mind was filled with the word of God and acquainted with the Jewish hopes and prospects. Doubtless here the indomitable purpose was fixed "rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season" (Heb. 11:24-26).

Again, he was educated at the Egyptian court where he became acquainted with all the wisdom of the Egyptians (Acts 7:22).

4. His exile and marriage (vv. 11-22).

Moses was obliged to take his flight from Egypt at the age of forty, because he attempted to enter upon his work as the deliverer of his people (Acts 7:25). He was conscious of his mission, but was mistaken as to the time. His rejection by his brethren was a type of Christ's rejection by the Jews. During this time of rejection he secured a bride, Jesus Christ, his great antitype, while now in the place of rejection by His brethren, he is getting a bride from among the Gentiles. Just as Moses after awhile returned and delivered his people, so will Christ return and deliver His people, the Jews, who rejected Him.

11. Moses Called to Deliver His People (3:1-14).

1. The Lord spoke from the burning bush (vv. 1-6).

It was while keeping the flock of his father-in-law in the desert that the Lord appeared to Moses in the vision of the burning bush. This bush, enveloped in flames, yet unconsumed, symbolized the people of God enswathed in the very fire of God.

2. Moses' commission (vv. 7-10).

In this commission God showed His active interest in His people. Because of His grace He obligated Himself to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians and bring them into the chosen land; therefore God commissioned Moses to bring forth the people out of Egypt.

3. Moses' objections removed (vv. 11-14).

Four objections were offered, each one of which God met and removed.

(1) Personal unworthiness (v. 11).

(2) The difficulty of the people to understand Moses' relationship to God (vv. 13, 14).

(3) Unbelief on the part of the people (4:1).

(4) Lack of eloquence (4:10).

Value of Religious Belief

I should prefer a firm religious belief to every other blessing; for it makes life a discipline of goodness, creates new hopes when all earthly hopes vanish, and throws over the decay, the destruction of existence, the most gorgeous of all lights; awakens life even in death.—Sir Humphry Davy.

Little Pitchers Hold Little Water

Signaling by Drums

In South Africa messages are signaled by means of drums made of bark, the tappings on which can be heard many miles away. It is by this method that the defeat of Sir Redvers Buller at Colenso was made known to natives 60 miles distant in the space of two hours.

Barber Philatelist

A London barber spends all his odd moments collecting stamps, and the walls of his shop are papered with stamps of all descriptions. He is also an art critic, his advice being sought when a person desires to purchase what is claimed to be a valuable picture.

MEDAL TO OPERATOR 11,000 MILES AWAY

Malcolm P. Hanson, With Byrd Near South Pole, Hears Tribute.

One of the most striking methods of making an award of merit ever devised was the recent presentation of The Veteran Wireless Operators' Association medal in a speech by David Sarnoff in New York to Malcolm P. Hanson, radio operator with Byrd, listening by radio in the Antarctic wastes near the South Pole.

Mr. Sarnoff, Executive Vice-President of the Radio Corporation, praising Hanson, mentioned also the fortitude of the wife of the operator, who had consented that her husband go on the hazardous expedition for the sake of science. After she had received the medal for safe keeping, Mrs. Hanson, deeply touched, spoke to her husband across the vast distance. Within a few minutes Hanson's reply came by radio telegraph through the receiving station of R. C. A. Communications, Inc., at Riverhead, Long Island. In addition to thousands at the Radio World's Fair, where the presentation was made, an uncounted throng heard the tribute over the network of the National Broadcasting Company.

Mrs. Malcolm P. Hanson, Holding Medal Awarded to Her Husband, 11,000 Miles Away.

"It is my privilege," Mr. Sarnoff said, "to pay tribute tonight to a man who has made an unusual contribution to science and civilization. Although he is 11,000 miles distant from this glass-enclosed room in Madison Square Garden, where I now stand, he is nevertheless able, through the instrumentality of Radio, to listen to the sound of my voice. That fact alone is worthy of commemoration, even in this day of extraordinary progress in science."

"Malcolm P. Hanson, as Chief Radio Operator of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition, you have been awarded the annual medal of the Veteran Wireless Operators' Association, for the most distinguished contribution, by a radio operator, in 1928, to wireless communication. As a member of that association, with some knowledge of its romantic traditions and standards of service, I feel that the award is well earned and well deserved."

Mr. Sarnoff related how Hanson planted his slender steel towers on the edge of the great ice barrier, cheered his comrades with news from home and gave the world for the first time a thrilling daily account of a polar expedition. Those things alone would have been a contribution to history, he said, but Hanson added to radio knowledge by testing signals against the polar sky, observed the phenomena of the Aurora Australis and made a record of radio behavior under conditions hitherto unknown. To Mrs. Hanson, Mr. Sarnoff said:

"Your sacrifice was all the greater because soon after your husband sailed for the Antarctic, you bore him a child. No medal can ever reward or repay you for your own courage and heroism."

NEW SILHOUETTE AND THE HAIRNET

Women have gone back to femininity. It is charming, delightful, enchanting! The new silhouette has brought home to fair femininity the need of perfection in line. Miss and Mrs. 1930 have rediscovered the hair net. Not the obvious net of Victorian days, but a new hair net daintily created, which performs its duties perfectly, but invisibly! The long-haired era is upon us, women who never knew what a hair pin was have discovered how untrustworthy it can be, how it vanishes, leaving a once sleek chignon to tumble untidily down. So the hair net just had to be called upon to keep coiffures charming throughout active days and nights! These little modern nets, which guard the coiffures capably are marvelously helpful. Fashioned of fine quality human hair, they slip on snugly, comfortably, smartly, and then seem to disappear from view. Hairnets provide an inexpensive form of "beauty insurance" for the fair sex. MOKENA IN MEMORIAM

CAPEL ELIZABETH—In loving memory of our dear mother, who died one year ago, July 18, 1929. We miss thee from our home, dear mother

We miss thee from thy place,
A shadow o'er our life is cast,
We miss the sunshine of thy face.
We miss thy kind and willing hand,
Thy fond and earnest care,
Our home is dark without thee—
We miss thee everywhere.

THE CHILDREN

While Wish Bruder was driving to Mokena Thursday morning, his car and a new Ford collided near the Helehouse blacksmith shop. The cars were damaged but no one was hurt.

The Rock Island brought in an extra gang of 75 Mexicans about 2 weeks ago to do track work. New ballast was to have been put on and the tracks raised 6 inches. Bunk cars were set out on a special side track. Last Friday an order came that all work contemplated cease and the Mexicans were paid off and the camp is deserted.

Fred Goebel Heads Tinley Lions

Fred Goebel was installed as president of the Tinley Park Lions Club on Monday night. In his address to the club members, Mr. Goebel asked that every member boost for his own home town and to help develop the community. He also showed that Bremen township has a big future. This township has more paved roads than any of the other townships in this section. Mr. Goebel succeeds Paul Rauhoff as Lion president. The new Lion officers are:

Fred Goebel, president.
Harry A. Mager, 1st vice-pres.
Robert Rooker, 2nd vice-pres.
Clyde Rice, 3rd vice-pres.
Robert Rooker, secretary.
Wm. Rick, Treasurer.
Fred Rauch, Lion Tamer.
Arthur Schoeneck, Tail Twister

Directors: John F. Boeyer, George Schreiber, Wm. Funk, Robert Rooker, H. C. Vogt, J. C. Funk.

WIELAND WILL PROBATED

The estate of Fred Wieland of Frankfort township who died June 5, 1930 was offered for probate on Monday.

The will provides that his widow Mrs. Mary Wieland is to have life interest in both his real estate and personal property. After her death the instrument directs that his farm land be sold and the proceeds divided equally among his six children. It provides that Josephine Wieland is to receive $1000 in addition to her share.

Hearing on the petition for probate of the will was set by Probate Judge Fred Adams for July 29.

Mrs. James Fulton fell from a chair one day last week while doing some house cleaning work and sustained a broken arm.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Goebel are entertaining the former's sister from Chicago.

The Spanish-Mexican dance put on by a Chicago dance company at the Saenger hall last Saturday evening was a big flop. The wet weather is blamed for the failure.

Mrs. Henry Wilke has been in Joliet most of last week visiting with her sister, Mrs. Harrington who is seriously ill. Mrs. Zier has been at her daughter's bedside most of the time during the past three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gebhardt, Detroit, Michigan have been guests at the Henry Wilke home the past week. Charles Wilke of Oregon, a nephew of Mr. Wilke's whom he has not seen in 15 years, has also been visiting at the Wilke home.

Mr. J. F. Copeland and wife of Clason Point Beach, N. Y. are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace B. Combs. On the 20th of July the birthday of Mrs. Combs will be observed by a barbecue to be held on their home grounds to which relatives and a few intimate friends have been invited.

The wide circling veranda on the residence of Mrs. M. E. Bremner of Palos Park was the scene of a party last Thursday when members of the Palos Woman's club gathered there for luncheon. In the afternoon a tour thru Mrs. Bremner's gardens was most interesting. Mrs. W. B. Combs won the bouquet given as a prize for having the greatest number of flowers in bloom. Other tokens were won by Mrs. Alfred Pashley and Ethel Mulhausen. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Paul McClaskey and Mrs. Arthur Huen.

Edna Simons is back on the job as telephone operator after a two weeks vacation.

Miss Elda Hopman assistant postmistress is spending her vacation in Indiana.

Miss Ruby Simons, Emil and Erna Boldenow are visiting with relatives in Minnesota.

Mayor Wm. Funk and a number of other fishermen leave this week on a fishing trip to Grand Rapids, Minnesota in the Duluth, region.

A number of Tinley Park folks attended the lawn social at the Wm. Beagley home near Orland Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Schwartz of Detroit are visiting at the J. C. Andres home.

Work on laying the water mains in the south Elmore subdivision is well under way.

A carload of lumber was unloaded here this week for new houses to be built in the south Elmore subdivision. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Neimann have gone on a trip to Iowa to visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mancke and son Walter have gone on a vacation and fishing trip in Wisconsin.

The families of Harry A. Mager, J. C. Funk, Chas. Nielsen, Fred Goebel and Wm. Firschau enjoyed an outing at Avon Beach on the Kankakee river Sunday.

The village streets are being scarified and graded. The Cook county road outfit has been doing the work.

Life's Length

The shortness of life is bound up with its fullness. It is to him who is most active, always thinking, feeling, working, caring for people and for things, that life seems short. Strip a life empty, and it will seem long enough.—Phillips Brooks.

Self-Knowledge

A well-known clergyman says every man should keep a diary so that he may know himself. The average man knows himself well enough to be certain that if he started a diary he wouldn't keep it up.
